Lee (Classic Reprint) James D. McCabe,2015-07-08

Excerpt from Life and Campaigns of General Robert E Lee I have been led to the preparation of this work by a desire to collect in a useful and convenient form a history of the achievements of the great soldier recently at the head of the armies of the South and as he is endeared to his countrymen chiefly by his connection with them in the gallant struggle which has just closed I have devoted the greater part of these pages to that portion of his life passing over the preceding with as little delay as possible I have brought to the execution of this task a sincere desire to lay aside the feelings engendered by four years of war and to investigate fully and discuss impartially and truthfully the topics that are presented in this volume I have spared no pains to render my sources of information as complete as possible In May 1861 I commenced to collect such papers and documents both official and unofficial relating to the war as I could procure To this task begun for a purpose not altogether different from that to which I have now applied it I devoted the entire period of the war and was aided in it by many members of the various branches of the Confederate Government and of the army In this way I secured an extensive and valuable collection of materials for a history of the war or biographies of the individuals connected with it a collection embracing over fifteen thousand papers of all kinds to which through the kindness of friends I have been able to add many valuable maps and charts About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books Find more at www.forgottenbooks.com This book is a reproduction of an important historical work Forgotten Books uses state of the art technology to digitally reconstruct the work preserving the original format whilst repairing imperfections present in the aged copy In rare cases an imperfection in the original such as a blemish or missing page may be replicated in our edition We do however repair the vast majority of imperfections successfully any imperfections that remain are intentionally left to preserve the state of such historical works The Antietam Campaign Gary W. Gallagher,2012-01-01 The Maryland campaign of September 1862 ranks among the most important military operations of the American Civil War Crucial political diplomatic and military issues were at stake as Robert E Lee and George B McClellan maneuvered and fought in the western part of the state The climactic clash came on September 17 at the battle of Antietam where more than 23 000 men fell in the single bloodiest day of the war Approaching topics related to Lee s and McClellan s operations from a variety of perspectives contributors to this volume explore questions regarding military leadership strategy and tactics the impact of the fighting on officers and soldiers in both armies and the ways in which participants and people behind the lines interpreted and remembered the campaign They also discuss the performance of untried military units and offer a look at how the United States Army used the Antietam battlefield as an outdoor classroom for its officers in the early twentieth century The contributors are William A Blair Keith S Bohannon Peter S Carmichael Gary W Gallagher Lesley J Gordon D Scott Hartwig Robert E L Krick Robert K Krick Carol Reardon and Brooks D Simpson The Memory of the Civil War in American Culture Alice Fahs, Joan Waugh, 2005-10-12 The Civil War retains a powerful hold on the American imagination with each generation since 1865 reassessing its meaning and importance in American life This volume collects twelve essays by leading Civil War scholars who demonstrate how the meanings of the Civil War have changed over time The essays move among a variety of cultural and political arenas from public monuments to parades to political campaigns from soldiers memoirs to textbook publishing to children s literature in order to reveal important changes in how the memory of the Civil War has been employed in American life Setting the politics of Civil War memory within a wide social and cultural landscape this volume recovers not only the meanings of the war in various eras but also the specific processes by which those meanings have been created By recounting the battles over the memory of the war during the last 140 years the contributors offer important insights about our identities as individuals and as a nation Contributors David W Blight Yale University Thomas J Brown University of South Carolina Alice Fahs University of California Irvine Gary W Gallagher University of Virginia J Matthew Gallman University of Florida Patrick J Kelly University of Texas San Antonio Stuart McConnell Pitzer College James M McPherson Princeton University Joan Waugh University of California Los Angeles LeeAnn Whites University of Missouri Jon Wiener University of California Irvine Guide to Reprints 2007 K. G. Saur Editorial Staff, 2006-01-10 The Red River Campaign of 1864 and the Loss by the Confederacy of the Civil War Michael J. Forsyth, 2015-07-11 The Union Army s Red River Campaign began on March 12 1864 with a two pronged attack aimed at gaining control of Shreveport Louisiana It lasted until May 22 1864 when after suffering significant casualties the Union army retreated to Simmesport Louisiana The campaign was an attempt to prevent Confederate alliance with the French in Mexico deny supplies to Confederate forces and secure vast quantities of Louisiana and Texas cotton for Northern mills With this examination of Confederate leadership and how it affected the Red River Campaign the author argues against the standard assumption that the campaign had no major effect on the outcome of the war In fact the South had and lost an excellent opportunity to inflict a decisive defeat that might have changed the course of history With this campaign as an ideal example the politics of military decision making in general are also analyzed Southern Historical Society Papers Robert Alonzo Brock, Douglas Southall Freeman, 1978 The War for Korea, 1950-1951 Allan R. Millett, 2021-09-07 In The War for Korea 1945 1950 A House Burning one of our most distinguished military historians argued that the conflict on the Korean peninsula in the middle of the twentieth century was first and foremost a war between Koreans that began in 1948 In the second volume of a monumental trilogy Allan R Millett now shifts his focus to the twelve month period from North Korea s invasion of South Korea on June 25 1950 through the end of June 1951 the most active phase of the internationalized Korean War Moving deftly between the battlefield and the halls of power Millett weaves together military operations and tactics without losing sight of Cold War geopolitics strategy and civil military relations Filled with new insights on the conflict his book is the first to give combined arms its due looking at the contributions and challenges of integrating naval and air power with the ground forces of United Nations Command and showing the importance of Korean support services He also provides the most complete and sympathetic account of the role of South Korea s armed forces drawing heavily on ROK and Korea Military Advisory Group sources Millett integrates non American perspectives into the narrative especially those of Mao Zedong Chinese military commander Peng Dehuai Josef Stalin Kim Il sung and Syngman Rhee And he portrays Walton Walker and Matthew Ridgway as the heroes of Korea both of whom had a more profound understanding of the situation than Douglas MacArthur whose greatest flaw was not his politics but his strategic and operational incompetence Researched in South Korean Chinese and Soviet as well as American and UN sources Millett has exploited previously ignored or neglected oral history collections including interviews with American and South Korean officers and has made extensive use of reports based on interrogations of North Korean and Chinese POWs The end result is masterful work that provides both a gripping narrative and a greater understanding of this key conflict in international and American history
