Cancer In Children Cancer In Children:

100 Questions & Answers about Your Child's Cancer William L. Carroll, Jessica B. Reisman, 2005 This book is an invaluable resource for anyone coping with the physical and emotional turmoil of this frightening disease t Cancer in Children and Adolescents William L. Carroll, Jonathan L. Finlay, 2009-05-06 Cancer Incidence and Survival Among Children and Adolescents, 1999 Childhood Cancer and Functional Impacts Across the Care Continuum National Academies of Sciences Engineering and Medicine, Health and Medicine Division, Board on Health Care Services, Committee on Childhood Cancers and Disability, 2021-09-09 Since the late 1960s the survival rate in children and adolescents diagnosed with cancer has steadily improved with a corresponding decline in the cancer specific death rate Although the improvements in survival are encouraging they have come at the cost of acute chronic and late adverse effects precipitated by the toxicities associated with the individual or combined use of different types of treatment e g surgery radiation chemotherapy In some cases the impairments resulting from cancer and its treatment are severe enough to qualify a child for U S Social Security Administration disability benefits At the request of Social Security Administration Childhood Cancer and Functional Impacts Across the Care Continuum provides current information and findings and conclusions regarding the diagnosis treatment and prognosis of selected childhood cancers including different types of malignant solid tumors and the effect of those cancers on children TM s health and functional capacity including the relative levels of functional limitation typically associated with the cancers and their treatment This report also provides a summary of selected treatments currently being studied in clinical trials and identifies any limitations on the availability of these treatments such as whether treatments are available only in certain geographic areas Comprehensive Cancer Care for Children and Their Families National Academies of Sciences, Engineering, and Medicine, Institute of Medicine, Board on Health Care Services, National Cancer Policy Forum, 2015-08-31 Childhood cancer is an area of oncology that has seen both remarkable progress as well as substantial continuing challenges While survival rates for some pediatric cancers present a story of success for many types of pediatric cancers little progress has been made Many cancer treatments are known to cause not only significant acute side effects but also lead to numerous long term health risks and reduced quality of life Even in cases where the cancer is considered curable the consequences of treatment present substantial long term health and psychosocial concerns for children their families their communities and our health system To examine specific opportunities and suggestions for driving optimal care delivery supporting survival with high quality of life the National Cancer Policy Forum of the Institute of Medicine and the American Cancer Society co hosted a workshop which convened experts and members of the public on March 9 and 10 2015 At this workshop clinicians and researchers in pediatric oncology palliative and psychosocial care along with representatives from the U S Food and Drug Administration National Cancer Institute Children s Oncology Group pharmaceutical companies and patient advocacy organizations discussed and developed a menu of options for action to improve research quality of care and outcomes for pediatric cancer patients and their families In addition parents of children with cancer and pediatric cancer survivors shared their experiences with care and provided poignant personal perspectives on specific quality of life concerns and support needs for children and families across the life spectrum This report summarizes the presentations and discussion of the workshop

Children With Cancer Christine Eiser, 2004-04-12 This book is a comprehensive survey of how children's lives are affected by having cancer It covers the role of the family, caregivers, medical staff and teachers in their relation to a child who is ill and with those who survive This is a comprehensive account of

Hope and Suffering Gretchen Krueger, 2020-03-03 Gretchen Krueger's poignant narrative explores how doctors, families and the public interpreted the experience of childhood cancer from the 1930s through the 1970s Pairing the transformation of childhood cancer from killer to curable disease with the personal experiences of young patients and their families Krueger illuminates the twin realities of hope and suffering In this social history each decade follows a family whose experience touches on key themes: possible causes, means and timing of detection, the search for curative treatment, the merit of alternative treatments, the decisions to pursue or halt therapy, the side effects of treatment, death and dying and cure Recounting the complex and sometimes contentious interactions among the families of children with cancer, medical researchers, physicians, advocacy organizations, the media and policy makers Krueger reveals that personal odyssey and clinical challenge are the simultaneous realities of childhood cancer This engaging study will be of interest to historians, medical practitioners and researchers and people whose lives have been altered by cancer

Cancer in Children and Adolescents William L. Carroll, Jonathan L. Finlay, 2010-10-22 Over the last six decades there has been tremendous improvement in the survival rate for the majority of children affected by cancer in the United States and in Western Europe Despite dramatic advances in the developed world 85% of children diagnosed with cancer globally will not survive this disease Cancer in Children and Adolescents is an accessible textbook that covers the complexities and interdisciplinary nature of cancer occurrences and provides the fundamentals of diagnosis and management of cancers that affect children and adolescents Distinguished for its global focus many chapters in Cancer in Children and Adolescents are co-authored by recognized specialists from around the world Cancer in Children and Adolescents is divided into four major sections Section 1 The Laboratory Biology and Diagnostic Evaluation of Childhood Cancer Section 2 Principles of Cancer Therapy in Children Section 3 Tumors of Children Section 4 Supportive Care

They Never Want to Tell You David J. Bearison, 1991 They Never Want to Tell You transcends the negative metaphors and clichés of life-threatening disease to give voice to the culture of cancer and to the behavior and attitudes of those who function within that culture as patients, medical professionals, family and friends In these extraordinary narratives children coping with cancer reveal their most personal experiences and they speak with a candor that breaks through the cultural taboos ostensibly designed to protect us from the disease The rich, compassionate and honest words of these children give expression to concerns that adults who are struggling with cancer find nearly impossible to articulate Free of social conventions and cognitive distortions each story presents a powerful variation on the theme of survival in the face of the continuing uncertainties of life threatening disease Bearison a developmental psychologist and psychotherapist is keenly aware of the psychological impact of cancer on children particularly as survival times for childhood cancers lengthen and complex treatments intensify concern about the emotional not merely physical well being of children Bearison has culled from scores of interviews the most salient moments that represent these individual children in their shared struggle with disease In these pages the children express their wildest hopes and worst fears about cancer They speak of the absolute necessity of full disclosure the problems of relating to friends and family the difficult adjustment to hair loss their feelings of punishment grief and spirituality and many other issues In the course of these stories the children reveal not only their will to survive and their extraordinary capacity to understand themselves and their condition but their altruistic desire to share that understanding with other children as well as with adults who have cancer They Never Want to Tell You is rich and rewarding reading for cancer patients their families and health care professionals alike

Making Better Drugs for Children with Cancer National Research Council, Institute of Medicine, National Cancer Policy Board, Committee on Shortening the Time Line for New Cancer Treatments, 2005-05-01 The successes that have been achieved in treating childhood cancers stand as beacons against the less dramatic improvements for adults with cancer Progress began to accelerate in the 1960s and 1970s as treatment regimens were built up primarily by building combinations of chemotherapeutic drugs However the near absence of research in pediatric cancer drug discovery threatens to halt the progress in childhood cancer treatment achieved during the past four decades Making Better Drugs for Children with Cancer identifies the major issues to be addressed in developing new agents for childhood cancers the gaps in research and development and the steps that have been suggested to move the process forward This report also makes a new proposal to capitalize on today s science to bring new treatments to children s cancers
