The Quarterly Oriental Magazine, Review, and Register, 1827 Gaps and the Creation of Ideas Judith Seligson, 2021-03-08 Gaps and the Creation of Ideas An Artist's Book is a portrait of the space between things whether they be neurons quotations comic book frames or fragments in a collage This twenty year project is an artist's book that juxtaposes quotations and images from hundreds of artists and writers with the author's own thoughts Using Adobe InDesign for composition and layout the author has structured the book to show analogies among disparate texts and images There have always been gaps but a focus on the space between things is virtually synonymous with modernity Often characterized as a break modernity is a story of gaps Around 1900 many independent strands of gap thought and experience interacted and interwove more intricately Atoms textiles theories women Jews collage poetry patchwork and music figure prominently in these strands The gap is a ubiquitous phenomenon that crosses the boundaries of neuroscience rabbinic thinking modern literary criticism art popular culture and the structure of matter This book explores many subjects but it is ultimately a work of art Machine Translation: From Real Users to Research Robert E. Frederking, Kathryn B. Taylor, 2004-09-21 The previous conference in this series AMTA 2002 took up the theme From Research to Real Users and sought to explore why recent research on data driven machine translation didn't seem to be moving to the marketplace As it turned out the first commercial products of the data driven research movement were just over the horizon and in the intervening two years they have begun to appear in the marketplace At the same time rule based machine translation systems are introducing data driven techniques into the mix in their products Machine translation as a software application has a 50 year history There are an increasing number of exciting deployments of MT many of which will be exhibited and discussed at the conference But the scale of commercial use has never approached the estimates of the latent demand In light of this we reversed the question from AMTA 2002 to look at the next step in the path to commercial success for MT We took user needs as our theme and explored how or whether market requirements are feeding into research programs The transition of research discoveries to practical use involves technical questions that are not as sexy as those that have driven the research community and research funding Important product issues such as system customizability computing resource requirements and usability and fitness for particular tasks need to engage the creative energies of all parts of our community especially research as we move machine translation from a niche application to a more pervasive language conversion process These topics were addressed at the conference through the papers contained in these proceedings and even more specifically through several invited presentations and panels
