Being with Data Nathaniel Tkacz, 2022-06-01 Once the rarified stuff of scientists and statisticians data are now at the heart of our global digital economy transforming everything from how we perceive the value of a professional athlete to the intelligence gathering activities of governments We are told that the right data can turn an election help predict crime improve our businesses our health and our capacity to make decisions Beginning with a simple question how do most people encounter and experience data Nathaniel Tkacz sets out on a path at odds with much of the contemporary discussion about data When we encounter data he contends it is often in highly routinised ways through formatted displays and for specific cognitive tasks What data are and can do is largely a matter of how they are formatted To understand our datafied societies we need to turn our attention to data's formats and the powers of formatting This book offers an account of one such format the dashboard From their first appearance with the horse and carriage Tkacz guides readers on the historical development of this format Through analyses of car dashboards early managerial dashboards and the gradual emergence of dashboards as a computer display technology Tkacz shows how today's digital dashboards came to be and how their cultural history conditions the present Highly original and wide ranging this book will change how you think about data Money Counts

Mario Schmidt, Sandy Ross, 2020-01-16 Traditionally viewed as an abstraction the quantitative nature of money is essential in evaluating the relationship between monetary systems and society Money Counts moves beyond abstraction exploring the conceptual diversity and everyday enactment of money's quantity Drawing from case studies including British jewelers blood money payments in Germanic law codes and the quotidian use of money in cosmopolitical Moscow a Western Kenyan village and socialist Havana the chapters in this volume offer new theoretical and empirical interpretations of money's quantitative nature as it relates to abstraction sociality materiality freedom and morality Markets and the Arts of Attachment

Franck Cochoy, Joe Deville, Liz McFall, 2017-05-18 The collection explores how sentiment and relations are organised in consumer markets Social studies of economies and markets have much more to offer than simply adding some context culture or soul to the analysis of economic practices As this collection showcases studying markets socially reveals how attachments between people and products are engineered and can explain how and why they fail The contributors explore the tools and techniques used to work with sentiment aesthetics and relationships through strategies including social media marketing consumer research algorithmic profiling personal selling and call centre and relationship management The arts of attachment as the various contributions demonstrate play a crucial but often misunderstood role in the technical and organisational functioning of markets Bioinformation Worlds and Futures EJ Gonzalez-Polledo, Silvia Posocco, 2021-11-29 This book sets out to define and consolidate the field of bioinformation studies in its transnational and global dimensions drawing on debates in science and technology studies anthropology and sociology It provides situated analyses of bioinformation journeys across domains and spheres of interpretation As unprecedented amounts of data relating to biological processes and lives are collected aggregated traded and exchanged infrastructural systems and machine learners produce real consequences as they turn indeterminate data into actionable decisions for states companies scientific researchers and consumers Bioinformation accrues multiple values as it transverses multiple registers and domains and as it is transformed from bodies to becoming a subject of analysis tied to particular social relations promises desires and futures The volume harnesses the anthropological sensibility for situated fine grained ethnographically grounded analysis to develop an interdisciplinary dialogue on the conceptual political social and ethical dimensions posed by bioinformation

The Social Lives of Numbers Brian Silverstein, 2020-12-12 This book examines the changing role of statistics in institutional reform in Turkey and the unanticipated ways in which such changes transform livelihoods as well Turkish agriculture is undergoing its most profound transformation since the establishment of the Republic in the 1920s Seemingly minor technical adjustments in farmers reporting requirements and practices to collect better data on agriculture for statistics are also having a rapid and massive effect on farmers practices and livelihoods The attempt to understand agriculture in Turkey in new ways is changing agriculture itself The relationship between statistics and social and natural phenomena is thus performative and such performativity undergirds a great deal of socio technical change in the world Drawing on fieldwork in Turkey with statisticians farmers and agricultural extension technicians the book shows how alongside deliberation about reforms it is in and through this performativity that much of the work of institutional commensuration actually happens

Coming of Age in Second Life Tom Boellstorff, 2015-08-25 Millions of people around the world today spend portions of their lives in online virtual worlds Second Life is one of the largest of these virtual worlds The residents of Second Life create communities buy property and build homes go to concerts meet in bars attend weddings and religious services buy and sell virtual goods and services find friendship fall in love the possibilities are endless and all encountered through a computer screen At the time of its initial publication in 2008 Coming of Age in Second Life was the first book of anthropology to examine this thriving alternate universe Tom Boellstorff conducted more than two years of fieldwork in Second Life living among and observing its residents in exactly the same way anthropologists traditionally have done to learn about cultures and social groups in the so called real world He conducted his research as the avatar Tom Bukowski and applied the rigorous methods of anthropology to study many facets of this new frontier of human life including issues of gender race sex money conflict and antisocial behavior the construction of place and time and the interplay of self and group Coming of Age in Second Life shows how virtual worlds can change ideas about identity and society Bringing anthropology into territory never before studied this book demonstrates that in some ways humans have always been virtual and that virtual worlds in all their rich complexity build upon a human capacity for culture that is as old as humanity itself Now with a new preface in which the author places his book in light of the most recent transformations in online culture Coming of Age in Second Life remains the classic ethnography of virtual worlds
