Christopher Alexander The Search For A New Paradigm In Architecture:

Christopher Alexander Stephen Grabow, 1983 Anti-architecture and Deconstruction Nikos Angelos Salingaros, 2004 The Emperor Has No Clothes is an old adage but in the sad case of Deconstructivism it is absolutely appropriate as Deconstructivism is really nothing more than Modernism in a new guise Modernists notably the Bauhaus aimed for the clean slate jettisoning everything that went before Yet at times they claimed links with antecedents to give a spurious historical ancestry to their aims and creations These questionable links and precedents are now being claimed for the works of Deconstructivists by sympathetic architects and their supporters Early and Unpublished Writings of Christopher Alexander Howard Davis, 2022-08-17 This book brings together key works of the noted architect and architectural theorist Christopher Alexander 1936 2022 many of which have not been published before The book contains twenty five essays and other works many chosen from the newly organized Christopher Alexander archive providing a window into the ideas and thought process of one of the most innovative architectural thinkers of the twentieth century The items span Alexander's fifty year career beginning with an early version of his PhD dissertation based on fieldwork in India continuing to fifteen years in the development of A Pattern Language one of the best selling books in the history of architecture and proceeding to the writing of The Nature of Order Alexander's four volume masterwork and beyond The writings combine theory and descriptions of practice and together support a blueprint for the development of a new humane way of building while also providing a window into the mind of an extraordinary thinker teacher and professional

Encounters with Architecture Howard Davis, 2025-12-04 The hundred places of this book were visited over several decades and played an important role in Davis's career Insights come from everyday places and famous landmarks some beautiful some the product of fine craftsmanship some active places of gathering or commerce some quiet places of contemplation All stayed in the author's memory helping build the framework of his understandings of what is important to people in architecture and cities Organized chronologically the book begins with the author's encounters with buildings and places as a child in New York and leads to his most recent architectural experiences as a seasoned professor scholar and traveler Each encounter is explained on two or three pages that bring out the reasons for its significance and the lessons learned from it Readers are encouraged to look for themselves and see how the places they encounter in their everyday lives and travels can enrich their own understandings about the built world that surrounds them Illustrated with beautiful photographs drawings and diagrams the book will interest people outside architecture who are fascinated by buildings and cities as well as teachers practitioners and students of architecture and cities The Construction of Cognitive Maps Juval Portugali, 2007-08-23 and processes which are exclusive to humans in their encoding storing decoding and retrieving spatial knowledge for various tasks The authors present and discuss connectionist models of cognitive maps which are based on local representation versus models which are based on distributed representation as well as connectionist models concerning language and spatial relations As is well known Gibson's 1979 ecological approach suggests a view on cognition which is diametrically different from the classical main stream view perception and thus cognition is direct immediate and needs no internal information processing and is thus essentially an external process of interaction between an organism and its external environment The chapter by Harry Heft introduces J J Gibson's ecological approach and its implication to the construction of cognitive maps in general and to the issue of wayfinding in particular According to Heft main stream cognitive sciences are essentially Cartesian in nature and have not as yet internalized the implications of Darwin's theory of evolution Gibson in his ecological approach has tried to do exactly this The author introduces the basic terminology of the ecological approach and relates its various notions in particular optic flow nested hierarchy and affordances to navigation and the way routes and places in the environment are learned

Rethinking Aesthetics Ritu Bhatt, 2013 Rethinking Aesthetics is the first book to bring together prominent voices in the fields of architecture philosophy aesthetics and cognitive sciences to radically rethink the relationship between body and design These essays argue that aesthetic experiences can be nurtured at any moment in everyday life thanks to recent discoveries by researchers in neuroscience phenomenology somatics and analytic philosophy of the mind who have made the correlations between aesthetic cognition the human body and everyday life much clearer The essays by Yuriko Saito Juhani Pallasmaa and Richard Shusterman among others range from an integrated mind body approach to chair design to Zen Buddhist notions of mindfulness to theoretical accounts of existential relationships with buildings to present a full spectrum of possible inquiries By placing the body in the center of design Rethinking Aesthetics opens new directions for rethinking the limits of both essentialism and skepticism
