

Chapter 13: Market economic system

Suggested answers to individual and group activities

Group activities

1. a A firm may perform better in the private sector due to the profit incentive and competitive pressure.
- b A firm in the public sector may do better than the one in the private sector, as it may base its production decisions on the full costs and benefits of those decisions.
2. 1 a Those people whose labour skills are in high demand are well paid. Entrepreneurs, who produce what consumers want, can make high profits. Those with high incomes can save and earn income from their savings.
- b The sick, disabled and old will find it hard to earn an income.
2. c and d – the profit motive and private ownership of land are key features of a market economy. a and b are found in a planned economy.
3. a Bata is likely to have chosen to produce handbags because of rising consumer demand.
- b Consumers may benefit from the firm spending more on research and development and investment, as this would improve the quality and quantity of its existing products and also stimulate the introduction of new products.

Individual activities

1. a

- b The market for onions responded to the shortage caused by the poor crop by an increase in price. The higher price rationed out the onions and restored the market to equilibrium. The higher demand for tomatoes raised their price and encouraged the producers to supply them in greater amounts.
2. a Higher wages.
