

Question 10: Summarize the important epidemiologic characteristics of the disease determined at this point.

In 1856, John Stuart Mills laid out a series of canons of inductive reasoning. Among them are:

- The Method of Difference - If two populations are similar except for one factor, then differences in disease may be hypothesized to be the result of the one difference.
- The Method of Agreement - If a number of populations share a common exposure to a factor, then occurrence of disease in all of these populations may be hypothesized to be the result of the common factor.
- The Method of Concomitant Variation - If amount of exposure and amount of disease vary proportionally, then disease may be hypothesized to be the result of the exposure (basically, dose-response or ecologic correlation).

- The Method of Residues - If exposures can be removed or abated, then the factor that is associated with the greatest reduction in disease may be hypothesized to be a causal factor.
- The Method of Analogy - If the symptoms and mode of transmission of an unknown disease resemble those of a known disease, the causal factor(s) may be hypothesized to be similar.

Question 11: Using the information you have about Disease X or another newly identified disease, give an example of each canon.
