Conflict Mediation Across Cultures Pathways And Patterns:

Conflict Mediation Across Cultures David W. Augsburger, 1992-01-01 Believing not only that conflict is inevitable in human life but that it is essential and can be quite constructive Augsburger proposes a shift to an international approach in resolving conflict Augsburger focuses on interpersonal and group conflicts and provides a comparison of conflict patterns within and among various cultures

Asia-Pacific Legal Development Gerry Ferguson, 1998-11-01 In this age of globalization many legal experts see evidence of swift global movement toward an eventual single world legal system Yet the trend to political and economic integration in some parts of the world is matched by the trend to disintegration in others where strong cultural and political resistance to external influences exists Asia Pacific Legal Development traces current and prospective developments in several legal systems of the Asia Pacific region to make sense of these trends and counter trends The contributing authors represent a wide variety of specialist expertise both public and private and together they encompass the three sectors that constitute a modern system of formal law the economic the behavioural and the civic Taking into account the opinions and perspectives of both indigenous and non indigenous experts on topics ranging from prostitution to constitutional law the book surveys how several ASEAN nations as well as Canada Australia and New Zealand are confronting social economic and legal change In the first three parts chapters are grouped along general sectoral lines to cover economic civic and behavioural themes while in the fourth cross sectoral contexts are addressed With the introduction and concluding chapter the editors provide an overall integrating framework as well as provocative insights into trends in legal development in the Asia Pacific region and on comparative legal research and writing in general Asia Pacific Legal Development is not only an exemplary model for cooperative and comparative legal research and scholarly pluralism but also a rich study of the increasingly relevant issue of convergence and divergence of legal systems with a unique Asian focus

Conflict Mediation Across Cultures David W. Augsburger, 1992 David Augsburger believes conflict is not only inevitable in human life but also essential and possibly quite constructive It is universal distinct in every culture and experienced uniquely by every individual Augsburger explores variations in conflict and proposes a shift from an interpersonal approach to an international approach in resolving disputes He examines interpersonal and group conflicts and provides a comparison of conflict patterns within and among various cultures situational patterns versus cultural individual versus communal and direct versus indirect In this study Augsburger desensitizes the reader to his or her common sense about conflict and sensitizes the reader's uncommon sense about conflict inviting individuals to learn from other cultures

Mastering Mediation Education Fred Schonewille, Martin Euwema, 2012 Nowadays mediation education is implemented at all levels in society from kindergarten and primary school education peer mediation to university and post graduate master programs The length and intensity varies tremendously from two day courses to two year programs In this respect mediation is comparable to sports or the fine arts One can practice this intuitively and with basic training at grass roots level further develop this at the professional level and become a master in mediation On the professional level mediation is a respected part of the judicial process and the mediator is recognized as a full partner in the process of conflict management and dispute resolution an expert with specific knowledge and skills to assist as a third party To achieve this a high quality education in mediation is essential Otherwise mediation will be seen particularly by other professions and professionals as a soft skills and a secondary service At the professional level how should an education be developed What roles should universities play in mediation education What are the trends and what are the necessary steps to take to further develop this young profession into evidence based practices These questions formed the theme of an international symposium in Utrecht Mastering Mediation Education organized by the Universities of Utrecht and Leuven The mediation topics discussed at the symposium are presented in this book

Creating the Third Force Maureen P. Flaherty, Hamdesa Tusso, 2016-11-21 The profession of peacemaking has been practiced by indigenous communities around the world for many centuries however the ethnocentric world view of the West which dominated the world of ideas for the last five centuries dismissed indigenous forms of peacemaking as irrelevant and backward tribal rituals Neither did indigenous forms of peacemaking fit the conception of modernization and development of the new ruling elites who inherited the postcolonial state The new profession of Alternative Dispute Resolution ADR which emerged in the West as a new profession during the 1970s neglected the tradition and practice of indigenous forms of peacemaking The scant literature which has appeared on this critical subject tends to focus on the ritual aspect of the indigenous practices of peacemaking The goal of this book is to fill this lacuna in scholarship More specifically this work focuses on the process of peacemaking exploring the major steps of process of peacemaking which the peacemakers follow in dislodging antagonists from the stage of hostile confrontation to peaceful resolution of disputes and eventual reconciliation The book commences with a critique of ADR for neglecting indigenous processes of peacemaking and then utilizes case studies from different communities around the world to focus on the following major themes the basic structure of peacemaking process change and continuity in the traditions of peacemaking the role of indigenous women in peacemaking the nature of the tools peacemakers deploy common features found in indigenous processes of peacemaking and the overarching goals of peacemaking activities in indigenous communities
