

Congress in a FLASH

Name: _____

The Powers of Congress

The Constitution also lists the powers Congress has that the other branches and the individual states do not have. These are called enumerated, expressed, or listed powers. The Constitution doesn't necessarily say how each power should be used—just that they belong to the legislative branch. This can create controversy about what Congress is actually allowed to do. Depending on how you count them, there are between 17 and 35 individual powers on the list. Here are a few:

- Create rules on how to become a citizen
- Collect taxes, pay debts, and borrow money
- Regulate commerce (trade) between the states and with other countries
- Coin money and punish counterfeiters
- Punish pirates (!)
- Establish post offices, protect patents and copyrights
- Create lower federal courts
- Declare war, raise and support an Army and Navy
- Make any other laws that are "necessary and proper" to carry out the powers in this list

HOW TO MAKE A LAW

So, what about the law making?

The members of the House and Senate have a really important job. They are in charge of making the laws that run this country! Representatives and Senators are called legislators because they have the unique power to write bills, or legislation, that could become laws. How is a law made? It starts with having an idea about how to deal with a problem facing the country. Then there is a lot of research, conversation, compromise, and more conversation!
