Smith, Beth Rodgers, Kristine Moruzi, 2024-04-30 Since the publication of the first children's periodical in the 1750s magazines have been an affordable and accessible way for children to read and form virtual communities Despite the range of children's periodicals that exist they have not been studied to the same extent as children's literature The Edinburgh History of Children's Periodicals marks the first major history of magazines for young people from the mid eighteenth century to the present Bringing together periodicals from Britain Ireland North America Australia New Zealand and India this book explores the roles of gender race and national identity in the construction of children as readers and writers It provides new insights both into how child readers shaped the magazines they read and how magazines have encouraged children to view themselves as political and world subjects Critical Alliances S.

Brooke Cameron, 2020-01-29 Critical Alliances argues that late Victorian and modernist feminist authors saw in literary representations of female collaboration an opportunity to produce new gender and economic roles for women It is not often that one thinks of female allegiances such as kinship networks cultural inheritance or lesbian marriage as influencing the marketplace nor does one often think of economic models when theorizing feminist cooperation S Brooke Cameron suggest that through their representations of female partnership feminist authors such as Virginia Woolf Olive Schreiner George Egerton Amy Levy and Michael Field redefined the gendered marketplace and with it women's professional opportunities Interdisciplinary at its core and using a contextual approach Critical Alliances selects cultural texts and theories relevant to each writer's particular intervention in the marketplace Chapters look at how different forms of feminist collaboration enabled women to stake their claim to one of the many emergent professions at the turn of the century
