Behavioral and Medical Comorbidity: Identifying Challenges and Transforming Systems of Care M. Barton Laws, Brandon Gaudiano, Ronald Seifer, 2025-08-21 Prevalence of medical comorbidity is much higher for people with serious mental illness than it is for the general population People with mental illness die 14 to 18 years prematurely largely due to common causes of death including cerebrovascular disease diabetes and cancer For instance behavioral health disorders are the leading cause of disease burden in the U S There has been a historic separation between the systems which address behavioral health and the medical care system which addresses other health issues These systems differ in organization and financing and are represented by separate institutions and different professions In addition behavioral disorders are frequently criminalized rather than receiving treatment sufferers are incarcerated Effective medical management social support and patient experience are greatly enhanced when behavioral health primary care and other medical services are integrated with the healthcare system in the U S for example which is just beginning to make progress toward this goal
