Second Language Interaction in Diverse Educational Contexts Kim McDonough, Alison Mackey, 2013-02-28 This volume brings together empirical research that explores interaction in a wide range of educational settings It includes work that takes a cognitive brain based approach to studying interaction as well as studies that take a social contextual perspective Interaction is defined quite broadly with many chapters focusing on oral interaction as is typical in the field while other chapters report work that involves interaction between learners and technology Several studies describe the linguistic and discourse features of interaction between learners and their interlocutors but others demonstrate how interaction can serve other purposes such as to inform placement decisions The chapters in the book collectively illustrate the diversity of contemporary approaches to interaction research investigating interactions with different interlocutors learner learner learner teacher in a variety of environments classrooms interactive testing environments conversation groups and through different modalities oral and written face to face and technology mediated

Collaborative Evaluations in Practice

Liliana Rodríguez-Campos,2015-04-01 One of the reasons some groups are more effective than others is collaboration people implement evaluative decisions more willingly if they have collaborated on those decisions This book introduces real world applications of the Model for Collaborative Evaluations MCE in business nonprofit and education to make collaborative evaluations more accessible to you The MCE is a systematic framework that revolves around a set of six interactive components specific to conducting a collaborative evaluation It represents a practical attempt to capture the essence of collaborative evaluation from various perspectives in order to offer a valuable understanding of different stances that often arise when using this type of approach A multidisciplinary team of authors enriches the diverse perspectives of this book with their international and cross cultural expertise The intention is to share a deeper understanding of how this approach is applied to build collaborative relationships within an evaluation recognizing the level of collaboration will vary in each situation
