Cyberschool By Clifford Stoll:

Welcome to Cyberschool David Trend, 2001 Joey is a little fish Joey never stays in Mother Mam's mouth where it's safe He'd much rather swim around outside and explore Mam wants to make sure he's safe but when she gets into trouble will Joey be the one to save her A wonderful anytime book for parents to read to children and also a great book for learner to read alone A fun bedtime story and a few moments of fun with your kids ages 3-10 years High-Tech Heretic Clifford Stoll, 2000-09-12 The cry for and against computers in the classroom is a topic of concern to parents educators and communities everywhere Now from a Silicon Valley hero and bestselling technology writer comes a pointed critique of the hype surrounding computers and their real benefits especially in education In High Tech Heretic Clifford Stoll questions the relentless drumbeat for computer literacy by educators and the computer industry particularly since most people just use computers for word processing and games and computers become outmoded or obsolete much sooner than new textbooks or a good teacher As one who loves computers as much as he disdains the inflated promises made on their behalf Stoll offers a commonsense look at how we can make a technological world better suited for people instead of making people better suited to using machines The Internet Playground Ellen Seiter, 2005 Based on four years of experience teaching computers to 8-12 year olds media scholar Ellen Seiter offers parents and educators practical advice on what children need to know about the Internet and when they need to know it The Internet Playground argues that contrary to the promises of technology boosters teaching with computers is very difficult Seiter points out that the Internet today resembles a mall more than it does a library While children love to play online games join fan communities and use online chat and instant messaging the Internet is also an appallingly aggressive marketer to children and as this book passionately argues an educational boondoggle High-Tech Heretic Clifford Stoll, 2000-09-12 The cry for and against computers in the classroom is a topic of concern to parents educators and communities everywhere Now from a Silicon Valley hero and bestselling technology writer comes a pointed critique of the hype surrounding computers and their real benefits especially in education In High Tech Heretic Clifford Stoll questions the relentless drumbeat for computer literacy by educators and the computer industry particularly since most people just use computers for word processing and games and computers become outmoded or obsolete much sooner than new textbooks or a good teacher As one who loves computers as much as he disdains the inflated promises made on their behalf Stoll offers a commonsense look at how we can make a technological world better suited for people instead of making people better suited to using machines The Longman Writer Judith Nadell, John Langan, Eliza A. Comodromos, 2005-04 One of the most successful writing texts on the market this all in one rhetoric reader and handbook organized around the patterns of development contains everything students need for courses in freshman composition Created by the authors of the best selling Longman Reader the text draws on decades of teaching experience to integrate the best of the product and process approaches to writing Its particular strengths include an emphasis on the reading writing connection a focus on invention and revision more attention to the fact that patterns blend in actual writing and an abundance of class tested activities and assignments more than 350 in all Online Communities Chris Werry, Miranda Mowbray, 2001 Comprises a variety of viewpoints regarding e commerce higher education through distance learning democratization of universities development of the Internet into a free universal encyclopaedia community organization etc
