vision experts together in order to exchange ideas concepts and approaches in camera calibration and orientation These topics have been addressed in photogrammetry research for a long time starting in the second half of the 19th century Over the years standard procedures have been developed and implemented in particular for metric cameras such that in the photogrammetric community such issues were considered as solved problems With the increased use of non metric cameras in photogrammetry they are revealingly called amateur cameras especially CCD cameras and the exciting possibilities of acquiring long image sequences quite effortlessly and processing image data automatically online and even in real time the need to take a new and fresh look at various calibration and orientation issues became obvious Here most activities emerged through the computer vision community which was somewhat unaware as to what had already been achieved in photogrammetry On the other hand photogrammetrists seemed to ignore the new and interesting studies in particular on the problems of orientation that were being performed by computer vision experts
