

The book cover features a detailed illustration of a Covent Garden market stall. In the foreground, there are large, dark green cabbages and several round, light-colored vegetables, possibly cauliflower or kohlrabi. Behind these, there are stacks of dark, round objects, likely mushrooms. In the background, a man with white hair, wearing a dark jacket, is visible through the stall's window, looking towards the camera. The stall has a sign that reads 'HOWGEGO & COMPANY' above the window. To the right, another sign partially visible says 'KITCHENER'. The overall scene is set in a market environment with other stalls and buildings visible in the background.

Sara Calian, Brian Robinson

Covent Garden The Fruit Vegetable And Flower Markets:

Covent Garden Clive Boursnell, 2008 In the late 1960s and early 1970s Clive Boursnell shot thousands of colour and black and white photographs of the Covent Garden fruit vegetable and flower markets documenting the end of an era before the markets moved out of their site in the heart of London The book contains almost three hundred of those images portraits of the people working and using the markets the flowers fruit and vegetables the streets and architecture of the Covent Garden area and its distinctive character through every season It also includes interviews with the people who knew the market best the porters the stallholders the flower sellers BOOK JACKET Old Covent Garden Clive Boursnell, 2012-06-26 The magic of the old Covent Garden Market is evoked through Peter Ackroyd's introduction and Clive Boursnell's marvellous photographs taken over the course of numerous and extended visits to Covent Garden in the 1960s and 1970s The book includes a preface by Clive Boursnell and the words of some of the market people whom the photographer interviewed at the time The Horticultural Times and Covent Garden Gazette, 1887 The London Market Gardens, Or, Flowers, Fruits, and Vegetables as Grown for Market C. W. Shaw, 1879 England's Magnificent Gardens Roderick Floud, 2021-06-15 An altogether different kind of book on English gardens the first of its kind a look at the history of England's magnificent gardens as a history of Britain itself from the seventeenth century gardens of Charles II to those of Prince Charles today In this rich revelatory history Sir Roderick Floud one of Britain's preeminent economic historians writes that gardens have been created in Britain since Roman times but that their true growth began in the seventeenth century by the eighteenth century nurseries in London took up 100 acres with ten million plants that were worth more than all of the nurseries in France combined Floud's book takes us through more than three centuries of English history as he writes of the kings queens and princes whose garden obsessions changed the landscape of England itself from Stuart Georgian and Victorian England to today's Windsors Here are William and Mary who brought Dutch gardens and bulbs to Britain William who twice had his entire garden lowered in order to see the river from his apartments and his successor Queen Anne who like many others since vowed to spend little on her gardens and instead spent millions Floud also writes of Frederick Prince of Wales the founder of Kew Gardens who spent more than 40 000 on a single twenty five foot tulip tree for Carlton House Queen Victoria who built the largest most advanced and most efficient kitchen garden in Britain and Prince Charles who created and designed the gardens of Highgrove inspired by his boyhood memories of his grandmother's gardens We see Sarah Duchess of Marlborough who created a magnificent garden at Blenheim Palace only to tear it apart and build a greater one Deborah Duchess of Devonshire the savior of Chatsworth's 100 acre garden in the midst of its 35 000 acres and the gardens of lesser mortals among them Gertrude Jekyll and Vita Sackville West both notable garden designers and writers We see the designers of royal estates among them Henry Wise William Kent Humphrey Repton and the greatest of all English gardeners Capability Brown who created the 150 acre lake of Blenheim Palace earned millions annually and designed more than 170 parks many still in existence today We learn how gardening became a major catalyst for innovation central heating came from experiments to heat greenhouses with hot water pipes how the new iron industry of industrializing Britain supplied a myriad of tools mowers pumps and the boilers that heated the greenhouses and finally Floud explores how gardening became an enormous industry as well as an art form in Britain and by the nineteenth century was unrivaled anywhere in the world

Wunderlich,2013-05-02 In recent years it has become common place to hear claims that public space in cities across the globe has become the exclusive preserve of the wealthy and privileged at the expense of the needs of wider society Whether it is the privatization of public space through commerical developments like shopping malls and business parks the gentrification of existing spaces by campaigns against perceived anti social behaviour or the increasing domination of public areas by private transport in the form of the car the urban public space is seen as under threat But are things really that bad Has the market really become the sole factor that influences the treatment of public space Have the financial and personal interests of the few really come to dominate those of the many To answer these questions Matthew Carmona and Filipa Wunderlich have carried out a detailed investigation of the modern public spaces of London that most global of cities They have developed a new typology of public spaces applicable to all cities a typology that demonstrates that to properly assess contemporary urban places means challenging the over simplification of current critiques Global cities are made up of many
