Eric Von Hippel

Cognitive Surplus How Technology Makes Consumers Into Collaborators:

Cognitive Surplus Clay Shirky, 2010-07 For decades technology encouraged us to squander our time and as passive consumers Today tech has finally caught up with human potential In Cognitive Surplus Clay Shirky examines the changes we will all enjoy as our untapped resources of talent and good will are put to use at last Since the postwar boom we've had a surfeit of intellect energy and time a cognitive surplus Shirky argues persuasively that this cognitive surplus rather than being some strange new departure from normal behavior actually returns our society to forms of collaboration that were natural to us up to and through the early 20th Century He also charts the vast effects that our cognitive surplus aided by new technologies will have on 21st Century society and how we can best exploit those effects and how the choices we make are not only economically motivated but driven by the desire for autonomy competence and community

Cognitive Surplus Clay Shirky, 2011 Cognitive Surplus Clay Shirky, 2011-05-31 The author of the breakout hit Here Comes Everybody reveals how new technology is changing us for the better In his bestselling Here Comes Everybody Internet guru Clay Shirky provided readers with a much needed primer for the digital age Now with Cognitive Surplus he reveals how new digital technology is unleashing a torrent of creative production that will transform our world For the first time people are embracing new media that allow them to pool their efforts at vanishingly low cost The results of this aggregated effort range from mind expanding reference tools like Wikipedia to life saving Web sites like Ushahidi.com which allows Kenyans to report acts of violence in real time Cognitive Surplus explores what's possible when people unite to use their intellect energy and time for the greater good

Doing Experimental Media Archaeology Andreas Fickers, Annie Oever, 2022-12-31 This book offers a plea to take the materiality of media technologies and the sensorial and tacit dimensions of media use into account in the writing of the histories of media and technology In short it is a bold attempt to question media history from the perspective of an experimental media archaeology approach It offers a systematic reflection on the value and function of hands on experimentation in research and teaching Doing Experimental Media Archaeology Theory is the twin volume to Doing Experimental Media Archaeology Practice authored by Tim van der Heijden and Aleksander Kolkowski

Free Innovation Eric Von Hippel, 2024-04-30 A leading innovation scholar explains the growing phenomenon and impact of free innovation in which innovations developed by consumers and given away for free In this book Eric von Hippel author of the influential Democratizing Innovation integrates new theory and research findings into the framework of a free innovation paradigm Free innovation as he defines it involves innovations developed by consumers who are self-rewarded for their efforts and who give their designs away for free It is an inherently simple grassroots innovation process unencumbered by compensated transactions and intellectual property rights Free innovation is already widespread in national economies and is steadily increasing in both scale and scope Today tens of millions of consumers are collectively spending tens of billions of dollars annually on innovation development However because free innovations are developed during consumers unpaid discretionary time and are given away rather than sold their collective impact and value have until very recently been hidden from view This has caused researchers governments and firms to focus too much on the Schumpeterian idea of innovation as a producer dominated activity Free innovation has both advantages and drawbacks Because free innovators are self rewarded by such factors as personal utility learning and fun they often pioneer new areas before producers see commercial potential At the same time because they give away their innovations free innovators generally have very little incentive to invest in diffusing what they create which reduces the social value of their efforts The best solution von Hippel and his colleagues argue is a division of labor between free innovators and producers enabling each to do what they do best The result will be both increased producer profits and increased social welfare a gain for all
