Contained Beauty Debbi DiMaggio, 2012 Debbi DiMaggio has created a splash with her first book Contained Beauty photography reflections swimming pools Inspiring breathtaking and honest contained beauty is much more than a beautiful collection of photographs It is a visual journey that begins with who you are in order to know where you are going By weaving her DiMaggio writer's flare throughout the chapters in this book Debbi takes readers through a photographic excursion to some of the world's most stunning swimming pools By honestly seeing in her own reflection as to who she has become Debbi reaches out to help others living contained and without joy Following the Taoist Proverb No one can see their reflection in running water It is only in still water that we can see Debbi encourages all to take time with this artful collection of retro luxury and modern swimming pools and come away inspired Printed by Four Colour Print Group the 168 pages in this coffee table book are filled with exploding colors and dramatic images by photographers from around the world Debbi's definition of art Architecture Landscape Swimming Pool Inspired Beauty The Art of Real Estate Debbi DiMaggio, Adam Betta, 2015-04-21 Debbi DiMaggio's newest book is the first in The Art of Real Estate series an upcoming sequence of convenient and practical guides to specific real estate markets across the United States In this East Bay edition interested local buyers and sellers find area specific advice on navigating local market trends choosing the ideal real estate agent successfully marketing a home for sale and managing financial concerns among many other topics The book also contains a myth busting chapter that addresses common industry misconceptions from a real estate agent's insider point of view and copies of essential real estate documents and forms This extremely localized guide focusing on Debbi's major real estate markets in Piedmont Oakland Berkeley and Montclair is a must have for any savvy buyer or seller looking to do business in the area Popular Photography, 1994-05 Popular Photography - ND, 1949-06 Beyond Mimesis and Convention Roman Frigg, Matthew Hunter, 2010-04-28 Representation is a concern crucial to the sciences and the arts alike Scientists devote substantial time to devising and exploring representations of all kinds From photographs and computer generated images to diagrams charts and graphs from scale models to abstract theories representations are ubiquitous in and central to science Likewise after spending much of the twentieth century in proverbial exile as abstraction and Formalist aesthetics reigned supreme representation has returned with a vengeance to contemporary visual art Representational photography video and ever evolving forms of new media now figure prominently in the globalized art world while this return of the real has re energized problems of representation in the traditional media of painting and sculpture If it ever really left representation in the arts is certainly back Central as they are to science and art these representational concerns have been perceived as different in kind and as objects of separate intellectual traditions Scientific modeling and theorizing have been topics of heated debate in twentieth century philosophy of science in the analytic tradition while representation of the real and ideal has never moved far from the core humanist concerns of historians of Western art Yet both of these traditions have recently arrived at a similar impasse Thinking about representation has polarized into oppositions between mimesis and convention Advocates of mimesis understand some notion of mimicry or similarity resemblance or imitation as the core of representation something represents something else if and only if the former mimics the latter in some relevant way Such mimetic views stand in stark contrast to conventionalist accounts of representation which see voluntary and arbitrary stipulation as the core of representation Occasional exceptions only serve to prove the rule that mimesis and convention govern current thinking about representation in both analytic philosophy of science and studies of visual art This conjunction can hardly be dismissed as a matter of mere coincidence In fact researchers in philosophy of science and the history of art have increasingly found themselves trespassing into the domain of the other community pilfering ideas and approaches to representation Cognizant of the limitations of the accounts of representation available within the field philosophers of science have begun to look outward toward the rich traditions of thinking about representation in the visual and literary arts Simultaneously scholars in art history and affiliated fields like visual studies have come to see images generated in scientific contexts as not merely interesting illustrations derived from high art but as sophisticated visualization techniques that dynamically challenge our received conceptions of representation and aesthetics

Beyond Mimesis and Convention

Representation in Art and Science is motivated by the conviction that we students of the sciences and arts are best served by confronting our mutual impasse and by recognizing the shared concerns that have necessitated our covert acts of kleptomania Drawing leading contributors from the philosophy of science the philosophy of literature art history and visual studies our volume takes its brief from our title That is these essays aim to put the evidence of science and of art to work in thinking about representation by offering third or fourth or fifth ways beyond mimesis and convention In so doing our contributors explore a range of topics fictionalism exemplification neuroaesthetics approximate truth that build upon and depart from ongoing conversations in philosophy of science and studies of visual art in ways that will be of interest to both interpretive communities To put these contributions into context the remainder of this introduction aims to survey how our communities have discretely arrived at a place wherein the perhaps surprising collaboration between philosophy of science and art history has become not only salubrious but a matter of necessity

American Photography, 1929 Photo-era, 1908 The Pool Group and the Quest for Anthropological Universality Betsy van Schlun, 2016-11-21 Pool was an avant garde group that originated in 1927 in Britain and was active under this name until 1933 The group consisted of the well known modernist poet H D the English writer Bryher and the young Scottish writer and artist Kenneth Macpherson All three were first and foremost writers who at one point discovered film as another modern experimental medium of artistic expression Pool associated with almost all the iconic modernists of their time with Ezra Pound Gertrude Stein Ernest Hemmingway James Joyce Marianne Moore William Carlos Williams T S Eliot and Virginia Woolf to name only a few In addition due to their interest in film they were also befriended with such influential filmmakers as Sergei Eisenstein and

Georg Wilhelm Pabst and became closely associated with Weimar Berlin film culture Pool unites classical Modernism and modernity two directions that are usually considered to be contradictory The Pool phenomenon opens a new perspective onto Modernism and prompts a reconsideration of its canonical texts and figures Contrary to many artists of Modernism who devised highly individualistic aesthetic styles the artists of Pool strove towards a universal art of humanity that was rooted in all human nature and psychology
