

CHAPTER 10 NERVOUS SYSTEM: TISSUE AND BRAIN

Neurology: Study of structure, function, organic disorders of nervous system

Structures of Nervous System: central nervous system and peripheral nervous system

Central Nervous System: brain + spinal cord; located in dorsal cavity; brain is located in cranial cavity; spinal cord enclosed in spinal cavity

Peripheral Nervous System: located outside the CNS + consists of nerves that connect CNS with rest of body

Nervous System performs three general functions: sensory function, integrative function, motor function

- Sensory Function: gather info from inside the body + from outside environment; nerves carry info to the CNS.
- Integrative Function: sensory info brought to CNS is interpreted; brain puts together everything it knows bout topic + makes a plan
- Motor Function: convey info from CNS toward muscle + glands of body; carry out plans made by CNS

Nervous tissue is composed of two types of cells: neuroglia + neurons

Neuroglia or glial cells: nerve glue; most abundant of nerve cells; most are located in CNS

- Support, protect, insulate, nourish, and care for delicate neurons
 - Protective role; phagocytosis + damaged tissue
 - some glial cells participate in phagocytosis; others assist in secretion of cerebrospinal fluid
 - Glial cells do NOT conduct nerve impulses
 - Two more common glial cells: astrocytes + ependymal cells
 - Astrocytes: star shaped; most abundant of glial cells + most diverse functions (form blood brain barrier); support neuron structurally, cover entire surface of brain + help form protective barrier: blood-brain barrier; helps prevent toxic substances from entering nervous tissue of brain + spinal cord
 - Anchor or bind blood vessels to nerves for support; act as phagocytes
 - Astrocytes: secrete nerve growth factors that promote neuron growth + enhance synaptic development
 - Ependymal cell: cells line inside cavities of brain + assist in formation of cerebrospinal fluid
 - Lines ventricles as part of choroid plexus
 - bc glial cells undergo mitosis, most primary CNS tumors are composed of glial cells: such as astrocytomas
 - Schwann cells: produce myelin sheath for neurons in peripheral nervous system; assist in regeneration of damaged fibers
 - Oligodendrocytes: produce myelin sheath for neurons in central nervous system
- Neuron: important in transmission of electrical signals; vast communication network
- have many shapes and sizes; some are extremely short; others are very long w/ some measuring 4 ft in length; long shape makes them delicate
 - Nonmitotic: do not replicate or replace themselves when injured; do not give rise to primary malignant tumors
 - Sensory (afferent) neurons: carry info from periphery to CNS
