

CRYPTOCURRENCY

Blockchain

Blockchain is a distributed ledger technology that allows for secure, transparent, and tamper-proof transactions. It is the underlying technology behind cryptocurrencies like Bitcoin and Ethereum. Blockchain is a decentralized system where data is stored in blocks, each containing a list of transactions. These blocks are linked together in a chain, and the entire chain is distributed across a network of computers. This makes it difficult for anyone to alter the data without the consensus of the network.
