Coastal And Maritime Archaeology:

Coastal and Maritime Archaeology Jordan E. Kerber, 1991 Includes adaptation to various coastal and maritime settings and resources exploitation of shellfish and formation of shell middens and excavation and preservation of specific coastal and maritime archeological sites a valuable resource ARBA

California Maritime Archaeology L. Mark Raab, Jim Cassidy, Andrew Yatsko, William J. Howard, 2009-08-16 San Clemente Island is a microcosm of California coastal archaeology from prehistoric through historic times not only because of the extensiveness of its archaeological remains but because those remains have been so well preserved In California Maritime Archaeology the authors use the island as a platform to explore evidence of early seafaring colonization paleoenvironmental change and cultural interaction along the California coast They make a strong case that San Clemente island should be seen as a kind of California archaeological Galapagos offering an extraordinary variety of ancient life as well as surprising information about prehistoric hunter gatherers of the northern Pacific The authors two decades of research have resulted in this rich cultural history that defies widespread assumptions about California s ancient maritime history

The Oxford Handbook of Maritime Archaeology Alexis Catsambis, Ben Ford, Donny L. Hamilton, 2014-02 This title is a comprehensive survey of maritime archaeology as seen through the eyes of nearly fifty scholars at a time when maritime archaeology has established itself as a mature branch of archaeology

3D Recording and Interpretation for Maritime Archaeology John K. McCarthy, Jonathan Benjamin, Trevor Winton, Wendy van Duivenvoorde, 2019-03-06 This open access peer reviewed volume was inspired by the UNESCO UNITWIN Network for Underwater Archaeology International Workshop held at Flinders University Adelaide Australia in November 2016 Content is based on but not limited to the work presented at the workshop which was dedicated to 3D recording and interpretation for maritime archaeology The volume consists of contributions from leading international experts as well as up and coming early career researchers from around the globe The content of the book includes recording and analysis of maritime archaeology through emerging technologies including both practical and theoretical contributions Topics include photogrammetric recording laser scanning marine geophysical 3D survey techniques virtual reality 3D modelling and reconstruction data integration and Geographic Information Systems The principal incentive for this publication is the ongoing rapid shift in the methodologies of maritime archaeology within recent years and a marked increase in the use of 3D and digital approaches This convergence of digital technologies such as underwater photography and photogrammetry 3D sonar 3D virtual reality and 3D printing has highlighted a pressing need for these new methodologies to be considered together both in terms of defining the state of the art and for consideration of future directions As a scholarly publication the audience for the book includes students and researchers as well as professionals working in various aspects of archaeology heritage management education museums and public policy It will be of special interest to those working in the field of coastal cultural resource management and underwater archaeology but will also be of broader interest to anyone interested in archaeology and to those in other disciplines who are now engaging with 3D recording and visualization The Rising Tide F. A. Aberg, Carenza Lewis, 2000 The zone where sea meets land is an ever changing environment which often reveals fascinating details of human occupation and exploitation of the landscape This fragile historic environment also creates both research and management problems The papers published in this book were given at a joint conference of the Nautical Archaeology Society and the Society for Landscape Studies They review various aspects of and approaches to archaeological research in British coastal landscapes bringing together research from two traditionally separate disciplines terrestrial and maritime archaeology

Underwater and Coastal Archaeology in Latin America Dolores Elkin, Christophe Delaere, 2023-12-05 This volume features a range of theoretical and methodological approaches to underwater and coastal archaeology in Latin America showcasing the efforts of 82 researchers working across the region Robert J. Walker James P. Delgado, Stephen D. Nagiewicz, 2020-06-17 This book tells the story of the steamship Robert J Walker a coastal survey ship that sank with loss of 21 crew off the coast of New Jersey in 1860 Leaders in the efforts to document the shipwreck describe the history of the ship and the archaeology of the wreck emphasizing the collaborative community participation that made the project successful

The Archaeology of Maritime Landscapes Ben Ford, 2011-05-21 Maritime cultural landscapes are collections of submerged archaeological sites or combinations of terrestrial and submerged sites that reflect the relationship between humans and the water These landscapes can range in size from a single beach to an entire coastline and can include areas of terrestrial sites now inundated as well as underwater sites that are now desiccated However what binds all of these sites together is the premise that each aspect of the landscape cultural political environmental technological and physical is interrelated and can not be understood without reference to the others In this maritime cultural landscape approach individual sites are treated as features within the larger landscape and the interpretation of single sites add to a larger analysis of a region or culture This approach provides physical and theoretical links between terrestrial and underwater archaeology as well as prehistoric and historic archaeology consequently providing a framework for integrating such diverse topics as trade resource procurement habitation industrial production and warfare into a holistic study of the past Landscape studies foster broader perspectives and approaches extending the study of maritime cultures beyond the shoreline Despite this potential the archaeological study of maritime landscapes is a relatively untried approach with many questions regarding the methods and perspectives needed to effectively analyze these landscapes The chapters in this volume which include contributions from the United States the United Kingdom Norway and Australia address many of the theoretical and methodological questions surrounding maritime cultural landscapes The authors comprise established scholars as well as archaeologists at the beginning of their careers providing a healthy balance of experience and innovation The chapters also demonstrate parity between method and theory where the varying interpretations of culture and space are given equal weight with the challenges of investigating both wet and dry sites across large areas Bridging the Gap in Maritime

Archaeology: Working with Professional and Public Communities Katy Bell, 2019-02-28 Proceedings of a conference session held at CIfA 2014 The session focused on ways in which it is possible to engage with a wider audience in the course of maritime archaeological work Papers offer a series of case studies exhibiting best practice with regard to individual maritime projects and examples of outreach to local communities

Coastal Shrines and Transnational Maritime Networks across India and Southeast Asia Himanshu Prabha Ray, 2020-07-26 This book breaks new ground by examining trans oceanic connectivity through the perspective of coastal shrines and maritime cultural landscapes across the Bay of Bengal and the South China Sea It covers a period of expanding networks and cross cultural encounters from the 3rd century BCE to the 13th century CE The book examines the distinctiveness of these shrines and highlights their interconnections and their role in social integration in South and Southeast Asia By drawing on data from shipwreck sites the author elaborates on the material and religious intersections and transmissions between cultures across the seas Many of these coastal shrines survived into the colonial period when they came to be admired for their aesthetic value as monuments As nation states of the region became independent these shrines were often inscribed on UNESCO's World Heritage List on account of their Outstanding Universal Values The book argues that in the 21st century there is a need to promote the cultural connectivity of the past as transnational heritage on UNESCO's global platform to preserve and protect our shared heritage The volume will be essential reading for academics and researchers of archaeology anthropology museum and heritage studies history of South and Southeast Asia religious studies cultural studies and Asian studies
