Cognitive Contact Linguistics Eline Zenner, Ad Backus, Esme Winter-Froemel, 2018-11-19 This volume serves to illustrate the promising insights to be gained when cross fertilizing Cognitive Linguistics and contact linguistics which each hold crucial ingredients to an encompassing study of contact induced variation and change Combining the study of the individual mind with the study of shared context bridging research on experience and perspective with research on variation and change and tackling the methodological complexities that this empirical approach to mental categorization entails help us determine how the meaningful units that make up language are categorized and structured in the bi and multilingual mind and by extension in any human mind Together the ten papers in this volume reveal the complexities of the interaction between usage meaning and mind in contact induced variation and change which we hope will inspire future research exploring the possibilities of the cross fertilization we have labeled Cognitive Contact Linguistics

Memorization and the Compound-Phrase Distinction Marcel Schlechtweg, 2018-01-09 Over the last decades it has been hotly debated whether and how compounds i e word formations and phrases differ from each other The book discusses this issue by investigating compounds and phrases from a structural semantic functional and crucially cognitive perspective The analysis focuses on compounds and phrases that are composed of either an adjective and a noun or two nouns in German French and English Having distinguished compounds from phrases on structural and semantic functional grounds the author claims that compounds are by their nature more appropriate to be stored in the mental lexicon than phrases and supports his argument with empirical evidence from new psycholinguistic studies In sum the book maintains the separation between compounds and phrases and reflects upon its cognitive consequences

Complex Lexical Units Barbara Schlücker, 2019-01-14 Both compounds and multi word expressions are complex lexical units made up of at least two constituents The most basic difference is that the former are morphological objects and the latter result from syntactic processes However the exact demarcation between compounds and multi word expressions differs greatly from language to language and is often a matter of debate in and across languages Similarly debated is whether and how these two different kinds of units complement or compete with each other The volume presents an overview of compounds and multi word expressions in a variety of European languages Central questions that are discussed for each language concern the formal distinction between compounds and multi word expressions their formation and their status in lexicon and grammar The volume contains chapters on German English Dutch French Italian Spanish Greek Russian Polish Finnish and Hungarian as well as a contrastive overview with a focus on German It brings together insights from word formation theory phraseology and theory of grammar and aims to contribute to the understanding of the lexicon both from a language specific and cross linguistic perspective

Current Trends in Contrastive Linguistics María de los Ángeles Gómez González, J. Lachlan Mackenzie, Elsa M. González Álvarez, 2008-12-17 This book examines the contribution of various recent developments in linguistics to contrastive analysis The articles range across a broad gamut of languages with most attention going to the languages of Europe They show how advances in theory and computer technology are together impacting the field of contrastive linguistics Part I focuses from a broadly functional cognitive viewpoint on the close link with typology stressing the importance of embedding the treatment of grammatical categories in their contexts of use Part II turns to methodological issues exploring the enormous potential offered by parallel computer accessible corpora to contrastive linguistics and to enhancing the testability authenticity and empirical adequacy of cross linguistic studies Part III is concerned with contrastive semantics ranging from individual items to entire grammatical constructions and shows how meanings are coupled to language specific cognitive strategies and even to cultural differences in subjective awareness and the fashioning of personal identity

Cognitive Perspectives on Word Formation Alexander Onysko, Sascha Michel, 2010 The series provides a comprehensive forum for publications in linguistics covering the entire range of language including its variation and variability in space and time its acquisition theories on the nature of human language in general and descriptions of individual languages The series welcomes publications addressing the state of the art of linguistics as a whole or of specific subfields and publications that offer challenging new approaches to linguistics

Multiple Exponence Alice C. Harris, 2017 Multiple or extended exponence is the occurrence of multiple realizations of a single morphosemantic feature bundle of features or derivational category within a word This book provides data and direction to the discussion of ME which has gone in a variety of directions and suffers from lack of evidence Alice Harris addresses the question of why ME is of interest to linguists and traces the discussion of this concept in the linguistic literature The four most commonly encountered types of ME are characterized with copious examples from a broad variety of languages these types form the basis for discussion of the processing of ME the acquisition of ME the historical development of ME and analysis of ME The book addresses some of the most important questions involving ME including why it exists at all

Current Research in Applied Linguistics Teresa Fanego, Evelyn Gandón-Chapela, Paula Rodríguez-Puente, 2014-06-26 This volume offers a representative selection of the papers presented at the Third ELC International Postgraduate Conference on Language and Cognition ELC3 held in Santiago de Compostela 21-22 September 2012 The book is structured into four parts Part I comprises syntactic studies on the auxiliary verb get in Indian English the grammar of verbs capable of occurring with or without an object in Contemporary English and isolated if clauses Part II includes two papers dealing with word formation patterns and with crosslinguistic influences on motion expression in English and Spanish The studies in Part III discuss topics related to second language acquisition such as the difficulties encountered by Spanish speakers in learning English pronunciation verbal morphology production by Japanese learners of English and the effects of elicitation on students production of English past tense forms The papers in Part IV revolve around discourse analysis and psycholinguistics addressing topics such as automatic sentiment detection perspectival construal patterns in language and cognition and the effect of emotional valence on disambiguation processes The Morphology of Chinese Jerome L. Packard, 2000-08-03 This ground breaking study dispels the common belief that Chinese doesn't have words but instead has characters Jerome Packard's book provides a comprehensive discussion of the linguistic and cognitive nature of Chinese words It shows that Chinese far from being morphologically impoverished has a different morphological system because it selects different settings on parameters shared by all languages The analysis of Chinese word formation therefore enhances our understanding of word universals Packard describes the intimate relationship between words and their components including how the identities of Chinese morphemes are word driven and offers new insights into the evolution of morphemes based on Chinese data Models are offered for how Chinese words are stored in the mental lexicon and processed in natural speech showing that much of what native speakers know about words occurs innately in the form of a hard wired specifically linguistic program in the brain Historical Truth, Historical Criticism, and Ideology Helwig Schmidt-Glintzer, Achim Mittag, Jörn Rüsen, 2004-12-01 Three issues essential to our insight into the concept and function of historical consciousness and the description thereof form the core of this book historical truth historical comment and criticism and ideology including the historian's trustworthiness Taking as a point of departure the workings of these concepts in Chinese historical thinking the volume carefully draws comparisons with similar topics in the Western tradition It thus advocates and shows a truly comparative approach that sets the stage for an intercultural dialogue on this important subject The first comprehensive work on the political and cognitive dimensions of Chinese historical consciousness set against its Western counterpart Proceedings Uwe Böker, 1997
