Damned Thing Ambrose Bierce:

The Damned Thing Ambrose Bierce, 2021-09-17 Hugh Morgan's corpse lays savaged on the floor of a wood cabin and becomes the subject of an inquest into how he perished. No evidence that can be found explains how he died, however. His friend claims that he suffered convulsions while Morgan's diary indicates insanity, a claim only strengthened by his obsession with the damned thing, but perhaps there is more to Morgan's ramblings than is realised at first. The Damned Thing Ambrose Bierce, 2017-04-24 How is this book unique? Font adjustments, biography included. Unabridged 100% Original content. Illustrated. About The Damned Thing by Ambrose Bierce: The Damned Thing is a horror story written by Ambrose Bierce. It first appeared in Tales from New York Town Topics on December 7, 1893. The Damned Thing is written in four parts, each with a comical subtitle. The story begins in Hugh Morgan's cabin where local men have gathered around the battered corpse of Hugh Morgan to hold an inquest concerning his death. William Harker, a witness to the death, enters and is sworn in by the coroner to relate the circumstances. William reads a prepared statement about a hunting and fishing outing undertaken with Morgan. He and Morgan encountered a series of disturbances that Morgan referred to as that damned thing. During the last encounter, Morgan fired his gun in fear, then fell to the ground and cried out in mortal agony. Harker saw his companion moving violently and erratically while shouting and making disturbing cries. He thought Morgan was having convulsions because he didn't appear to be under attack. By the time Harker reached Morgan, Morgan was dead. The coroner states that Morgan's diary contains no evidence in the matter of his death. A juror implies that Harker's testimony is symptomatic of insanity, and Harker leaves the inquest in anger. The jury concludes that Morgan was killed by a mountain lion. The story becomes epistolary in nature, detailing entries from Morgan's diary. The journal covers the events leading up to Morgan's death as he becomes aware of an invisible creature that he is hunting. He reasons out that it lacks color or has a color that renders it invisible, but to make sure he is not crazy, he plans on inviting Harker with him when he hunts the damned thing.

The Damned Thing Ambrose Bierce, 2015-03-02 By the light of a tallow candle which had been placed on one end of a rough table, a man was reading something written in a book. It was an old account book, greatly worn, and the writing was not apparently very legible for the man sometimes held the page close to the flame of the candle to get a stronger light upon it. The shadow of the book would then throw into obscurity a half of the room, darkening a number of faces and figures. For besides the reader, eight other men were present. Seven of them sat against the rough log walls, silent and motionless, and the room being small, not very far from the table. By extending an arm, any one of them could have touched the eighth man who lay on the table, face upward, partly covered by a sheet, his arms at his sides. He was dead.
