The advocacy trap Stephen Noakes, 2017-12-27 What does China s rise mean for transnational civil society What happens when global activist networks engage a powerful and norm resistant new hegemon This book combines detailed ethnographic research with cross case comparisons to identify key factors underpinning variation in the results and processes of advocacy on a range of issues affecting both China and the world including global warming intellectual property rights HIV AIDS treatment the use of capital punishment suppression of the Falun Gong religious movement and Tibetan independence Built on a unique blend of comparative and international theory it advances the notion of advocacy drift a process whereby the objectives and principled beliefs of activists are transformed through interaction with the Chinese state The book offers a timely reassessment of transnational civil society including its power to persuade and to leverage the policies of national governments

The Next Frontier David T Johnson, Franklin E Zimring, 2009-02-02 Today two thirds of the world s nations have abolished the death penalty either officially or in practice due mainly to the campaign to end state executions led by Western European nations Will this success spread to Asia where over 95 percent of executions now occur Do Asian values and traditions support capital punishment or will development and democratization end executions in the world s most rapidly developing region David T Johnson an expert on law and society in Asia and Franklin E Zimring a senior authority on capital punishment combine detailed case studies of the death penalty in Asian nations with cross national comparisons to identify the critical factors for the future of Asian death penalty policy The clear trend is away from reliance on state execution and many nations with death penalties in their criminal codes rarely use it Only the hard line authoritarian regimes of China Vietnam Singapore and North Korea execute with any frequency and when authoritarian states experience democratic reforms the rate of executions drops sharply as in Taiwan and South Korea Debunking the myth of Asian values Johnson and Zimring demonstrate that politics rather than culture or tradition is the major obstacle to the end of executions Carefully researched and full of valuable lessons The Next Frontier is the authoritative resource on the death penalty in Asia for scholars policymakers and advocates around the world

Xiao,2008-11-12 When the SARS virus began its spread from southern China around the world in spring 2003 it caught regional and international health officials by surprise The SARS epidemic itself lasted for only a few months whereas its treatment in communicative terms keeps providing us with important lessons that can prepare us all for the much larger pandemic that many are predicting will eventually occur While the medical aspects of SARS are now relatively well understood the discursive rhetorical dimensions are much less so As an international epidemic SARS arrived in a number of distinctive societies with the result that different communities handled the crisis in different ways some far more effectively than others Accordingly the 12 chapters in The Social Construction of SARS are studies of how a major health related crisis was understood and dealt with from a communicative perspective in such diverse places as Hong Kong mainland China Singapore Taiwan Canada and the United States during the SARS outbreak
