Management Planning for Cultural Heritage Ken Taylor, Giulio Verdini, 2021-12-30 Management Planning for Cultural Heritage challenges traditional perceptions of and about the heritage planning process while also presenting a comprehensive analysis of the ever widening field of Cultural Heritage Conservation Drawing on the authors experience in teaching and involvement in international practice the book examines the changes that are taking place in modes of thinking about heritage as part of increasingly complex urban transformations and considers how these must engage with and inform professional practice The book also acknowledges that international best practice has developed a great deal over the last 40 years and needs to be adapted applied and refined through the recognition and application of regional values tangible and intangible based on cultural attitudes and practices Emphasising the critical role of heritage planning and management in guiding change Taylor and Verdini argue that this is especially critical if we are to safeguard values identity and significance In this sense heritage is understood not only as a technical process but also as a social construct The book therefore promotes a people centred approach to cultural heritage management Management Planning for Cultural Heritage will be of interest to students scholars and practitioners working in heritage studies and conservation While the text has professional application it also sets out to present a sound theoretical foundation relevant to the body of knowledge associated with management of cultural heritage places

The Role of Place Identity in the Perception, Understanding, and Design of Built Environments Hernan Casakin,Fátima Bernardo,2012 In an era of globalization where the progressive deterioration of local values is a dominating characteristic identity is seen as a fundamental need that encompasses all aspects of human life One of these identities relates to place and the physical en
