Metric Handbook Pamela Buxton, 2021-11-25 The Metric Handbook is the major handbook of planning and design data for architects and architecture students with over 100 000 copies sold to successive generations of architects and designers It remains the ideal starting point for any project and belongs in every design office The seventh edition references the latest regulations and construction standards and includes new chapters on data centres and logistics facilities alongside basic design data for all the major building types For each building type the book gives the basic design requirements and all the principal dimensional data and succinct guidance on how to use the information and what regulations the designer needs to be aware of As well as buildings the Metric Handbook deals with broader aspects of design such as materials acoustics and lighting and general design data on human dimensions and space requirements The Metric Handbook is the unique reference for solving everyday planning problems

Circadian Lighting Design in the LED Era Maurizio Rossi, 2019-02-06 This book explores how lighting systems based on LED sources have the ability to positively influence the human circadian system with benefits for health and well being The opening chapters examine the functioning of the human circadian system its response to artificial lighting potential health impacts of different types of light exposure and current researches in circadian photometry A first case study analyzes the natural lighting available in an urban interior concluding that it is unable to activate the human circadian system over the entire year Important original research is then described in which systems suitable for artificial circadian lighting in residential interiors and offices were developed after testing of new design paradigms based on LED sources Readers will also find a detailed analysis of the LED products available or under development globally that may contribute to optimal artificial circadian lighting as well as the environmental sensors control interfaces and monitoring systems suitable for integration with new LED lighting systems Finally guidelines for circadian lighting design are proposed with identification of key requirements

Building Services Design for Energy Efficient Buildings Paul Tymkow, Savvas Tassou, Maria Kolokotroni, Hussam Jouhara, 2020-07-12 The role and influence of building services engineers are undergoing rapid change and are pivotal to achieving low carbon buildings However textbooks in the field have tended to remain fairly traditional with a detailed focus on the technicalities of heating ventilation and air conditioning HVAC systems often with little wider context This book addresses that need by embracing a contemporary understanding of the urgent challenge to address climate change together with practical approaches to energy efficiency and carbon mitigation for mechanical and electrical systems in a concise manner The essential conceptual design issues for planning the principal building services systems that influence energy efficiency are examined in detail These are HVAC and electrical systems In addition the following issues are addressed background issues on climate change whole life performance and design collaboration generic strategies for energy efficient low carbon design health and wellbeing and post occupancy evaluation building ventilation air conditioning and HVAC system selection thermal energy generation and distribution systems low energy approaches for thermal control electrical systems data collection controls and monitoring building thermal load assessment building electric power load assessment space planning and design integration with other disciplines In order to deliver buildings that help mitigate climate change impacts a new perspective is required for building services engineers from the initial conceptual design and throughout the design collaboration with other disciplines This book provides a contemporary introduction and guide to this new approach for students and practitioners alike Deep Energy Retrofit—A Guide for Decision Makers Alexander Zhivov, Rüdiger Lohse, 2021-02-10 Many governments worldwide are setting more stringent targets for reductions in energy use in government public buildings Buildings constructed more than 10 years ago account for a major share of energy used by the building stock However the funding and know how applied knowledge available for owner directed energy retrofit projects has not kept pace with new requirements With typical retrofit projects reduction of energy use varies between 10 and 20% while actual executed renovation projects show that energy use reduction can exceed 50% and can cost effectively achieve the Passive House standard or even approach net zero energy status EBC Annex 61 2017a Hermelink and M ller 2010 NBI 2014 RICS 2013 Shonder and Nasser 2015 Miller and Higgins 2015 Emmerich et al 2011 Building energy efficiency EE ranks first in approaches with resource efficiency potential with a total resource benefit of approximately 700 billion until 2030 EE is by far the cheapest way to cut CO₂ emissions McKinsey 2011 IPCC 2007 However according to an IEA study IEA 2014a more than 80% of savings potential in building sector remains untapped Thus the share of deployed EE in the building sector is lower than in the Industry Transport and Energy generation sectors Estimates for the deep renovation potentials show 600 900bn investment potential 1000 1300bn savings potential 70% energy saving potential and 90% CO₂ reduction potential Environmental Ergonomics: Principles, Methods, and Applications Ken Parsons, 2025-04-14 Environmental Ergonomics Principles Methods and Applications provides the philosophy principles and application of environmental ergonomics as a universal concept and considers total environments as an integration of environmental factors to which people are exposed The book develops the definition of environmental ergonomics and presents the principles methods and application of knowledge in the areas of human response to heat and cold sound vibration light and air quality and addresses diverse environments and people The title explains the effects of the environment on the health comfort and performance of people for all environmental components introduces environmental ergonomics as a universal subject and offers general principles and methods for measuring and representing the environment and its effects A wide range of case studies demonstrates the application of the subject for all environmental components and for integrated environments Special environments such as vehicles and unique populations such as people with disabilities are considered in the book The title concludes with an in depth understanding of total environments with a description of how to conduct an environmental ergonomics survey and a case study An ideal read for any professional or student interested in environmental ergonomics including architects occupational hygienists interior designers systems engineers civil engineers HVAC engineers and building services engineers The title will help any reader develop a thorough understanding of the effects of the environment on the health comfort and performance of people *Kelly L.
