generic classifications Bordun contends that their films make it apparent that genre is not established prior to the viewing of a work but is recollected and assembled by spectators in ways that matter for them in both personal and experiential terms The author deploys contemporary film theories on the senses both phenomenological and affect theory and partakes in close readings of the films forms and narratives The book thus adds to the present literature on extreme cinema and film theory yet sets itself apart by fully deploying genre theory alongside the methodological and stylistic approaches of Stanley Cavell Vivian Sobchack Laura U Marks and Eugenie Brinkema Hollywood at the Intersection of Race and Identity Delia Malia Caparoso Konzett, 2020 Explores the ways Hollywood represents race gender class and nationality at the intersection of aesthetics and ideology and its productive tensions Film and Television Analysis Harry M. infrastructures to aesthetic styles and neoliberal policies Whether discussing how educational shorts from Britain and India transform natural landscapes into instructional lessons or how Jean Renoir's The River 1951 presents a universal human condition through the particularities of place Jaikumar demonstrates that the history of filming a location has always been a history of competing assumptions experiences practices and representational regimes In so doing she reveals that addressing the persistent question of what is cinema must account for an aesthetics and politics of space
