Emerging Dairy Processing Technologies Nivedita Datta, Peggy M. Tomasula, 2015-06-22 Fluid milk processing is energy intensive with high financial and energy costs found all along the production line and supply chain Worldwide the dairy industry has set a goal of reducing GHG emissions and other environmental impacts associated with milk processing Although the major GHG emissions associated with milk production occur on the farm most energy usage

associated with milk processing occurs at the milk processing plant and afterwards during refrigerated storage a key requirement for the transportation retail and consumption of most milk products Sustainable alternatives and designs for the dairy processing plants of the future are now being actively sought by the global dairy industry as it seeks to improve efficiency reduce costs and comply with its corporate social responsibilities Emerging Dairy Processing Technologies Opportunities for the Dairy Industry presents the state of the art research and technologies that have been proposed as sustainable replacements for high temperature short time HTST and ultra high temperature UHT pasteurization with potentially lower energy usage and greenhouse gas emissions These technologies include pulsed electric fields high hydrostatic pressure high pressure homogenization ohmic and microwave heating microfiltration pulsed light UV light processing and carbon dioxide processing The use of bacteriocins which have the potential to improve the efficiency of the processing technologies is discussed and information on organic and pasture milk which consumers perceive as sustainable alternatives to conventional milk is also provided This book brings together all the available information on alternative milk processing techniques and their impact on the physical and functional properties of milk written by researchers who have developed a body of work in each of the technologies This book is aimed at dairy scientists and technologists who may be working in dairy companies or academia It will also be highly relevant to food processing experts working with dairy ingredients as well as university departments research centres and graduate students better understanding of a rapidly evolving topic The Food Industry Innovation School Helmut Traitler, 2015-04-13

Innovation and new product development are increasingly perceived as drivers of profits in the food industry. Companies are dedicating a large amount of resources to these areas and it is crucial that individuals understand how to be part of this new strategy. Food Industry Innovation School focuses on key skills needed to drive new ideas from initial concepts through to successful products on the shelf. The author argues that any individual can learn how to lead innovation within complex organizations utilizing companies' commercial and financial resources. The book focuses on the impact of single individuals on company successes. Case studies from the marketplace provide valuable examples of accomplishments and failures. Product development involves a plethora of activities such as R D innovation, engineering, packaging and design, manufacturing, logistics and supply chain management as well as marketing, sales and finance, and the book addresses all these crucial functions undertaken by food companies and manufacturers of other packaged consumer goods. The learning principles and examples based on the author's personal experience are valid in many fast-moving consumer goods organizations, and so the principles, best practices and solutions offered in the 12 chapters are relevant to a wide audience in the food industry and beyond, including those working in household products, retail, the automotive industry, computers and IT, furniture and even media and publishing. Food and Nutrition Security in the Kingdom of Saudi Arabia, Vol. 2 Adam E. Ahmed, Jameel M. Al-Khayri, Azharia A. Elbushra, 2024-01-01

Food and nutrition security is a major concern for Saudi Arabia and the surrounding regions due to the range of challenges they face. These challenges include limited agricultural resources, low self-sufficiency in key food staples, climate change and high levels of food loss and waste. This book aims to evaluate and analyze the current situation and future prospects of food and nutrition security in Saudi Arabia. Additionally, it seeks to analyze and assess the roles and functions of various institutions related to food security, providing a deeper understanding of the complex problems associated with it. Furthermore, this book aligns with Kingdom Vision 2030, which includes a set of strategies and programs focused on agriculture, food and water security. It also aligns with the institutional identity of King Faisal University's Food Security and Environmental Sustainability. The book consists of four volumes. Volume 2 is entitled 'Macroeconomic Policy Implications on Food and Nutrition Security'. It covers various areas including food price, loss and waste, processing, finance, trade, investment, quality and safety, consumption patterns, climate change, early warning systems, nutrition, institutions, oil revenue and the significance of date, palm and Hassawi rice, genetically modified food and edible insects in ensuring food and nutritional security. This book is highly significant for professionals, researchers, policymakers and entrepreneurs involved in food and nutrition security in Saudi Arabia, the Gulf Cooperation Council and various national and international organizations. It offers a comprehensive analysis of the obstacles and possibilities in ensuring food and nutrition security as well as presenting practical approaches to address these issues. Additionally, graduate students studying in fields related to food and nutrition security will benefit from this book.
