Digital Diaspora Anna Everett, 2009-02-19 Traces the rise of black participation in cyberspace Digital Diaspora Anna Everett, 2009-02-05 Traces the rise of black participation in cyberspace Pan-African Futurism Reginold A. Royston, 2025-10-21 Ghana has been a crucial site of encounters between the West and Africa and a historic center for twentieth century Pan African independence movements Today it has also emerged as an important node of technology driven development in the Global South Ghana s activist software developers and digital diaspora are redefining the role of technology not simply as a means for economic growth but as a tool for greater African political autonomy In this rich ethnography Reginold A Royston uses the term Pan African futurism to describe the redemptive ethos among technologists working on development projects on the ground in Africa today Royston charts the explosion of mobile Internet access on the African continent growing interest in African tech entrepreneurship and the flowering of digital transnational ties Ghana s Pan African futurists advocate entrepreneurship and civil society activism as a means of hacking the kinds of socioeconomic development that have long been advocated by NGOs Using participant observation and interviews with tech developers on the ground and media producers in the diaspora including in virtual spaces and with communities online Royston provides a nuanced portrait of tech users focused on social good emanating from the Global South expanding the discourse for contemporary Pan African politics Discriminating Data Wendy Hui Kyong Chun, 2021-11-02 How big data and machine learning encode discrimination and create agitated clusters of comforting rage In Discriminating Data Wendy Hui Kyong Chun reveals how polarization is a goal not an error within big data and machine learning These methods she argues encode segregation eugenics and identity politics through their default assumptions and conditions Correlation which grounds big data s predictive potential stems from twentieth century eugenic attempts to breed a better future Recommender systems foster angry clusters of sameness through homophily Users are trained to become authentically predictable via a politics and technology of recognition Machine learning and data analytics thus seek to disrupt the future by making disruption impossible Chun who has a background in systems design engineering as well as media studies and cultural theory explains that although machine learning algorithms may not officially include race as a category they embed whiteness as a default Facial recognition technology for example relies on the faces of Hollywood celebrities and university undergraduates groups not famous for their diversity Homophily emerged as a concept to describe white U S resident attitudes to living in biracial yet segregated public housing Predictive policing technology deploys models trained on studies of predominantly underserved neighborhoods Trained on selected and often discriminatory or dirty data these algorithms are only validated if they mirror this data How can we release ourselves from the vice like grip of discriminatory data Chun calls for alternative algorithms defaults and interdisciplinary coalitions in order to desegregate networks and foster a more democratic big data The SUNY series, cultural studies in cinema/video ,1997 Digitizing Race Lisa Nakamura, 2007-12-20 Lisa Nakamura refers to case studies of popular yet rarely evaluated uses of the Internet such as pregnancy websites instant messaging and online petitions and quizzes to look at the emergence of race ethnic and gender identified visual cultures

Critical Cyberculture Studies David Silver, Adrienne Massanari, 2006-09 Taking stock of the exciting work that is being done and positing what cyberculture's future might look like This book brings together a diverse and multidisciplinary group of scholars from around the world to assess the state of the field

Race After the Internet Lisa Nakamura, Peter Chow-White, 2013-07-03 In Race After the Internet Lisa Nakamura and Peter Chow White bring together a collection of interdisciplinary forward looking essays exploring the complex role that digital media technologies play in shaping our ideas about race Contributors interrogate changing ideas of race within the context of an increasingly digitally mediated cultural and informational landscape Using social scientific rhetorical textual and ethnographic approaches these essays show how new and old styles of race as code interaction and image are played out within digital networks of power and privilege Race After the Internet includes essays on the shifting terrain of racial identity and its connections to social media technologies like Facebook and MySpace popular online games like World of Warcraft YouTube and viral video WiFi infrastructure the One Laptop Per Child OLPC program genetic ancestry testing and DNA databases in health and law enforcement Contributors also investigate the ways in which racial profiling and a culture of racialized surveillance arise from the confluence of digital data and rapid developments in biotechnology This collection aims to broaden the definition of the digital divide in order to convey a more nuanced understanding of access usage meaning participation and production of digital media technology in light of racial inequality Contributors danah boyd Peter Chow White Wendy Chun Sasha Costanza Chock Troy Duster Anna Everett Rayvon Fouch Alexander Galloway Oscar Gandy Eszter Hargittai Jeong Won Hwang Curtis Marez Tara McPherson Alondra Nelson Christian Sandvig Ernest Wilson

Cybertypes Lisa Nakamura, 2013-09-13 First published in 2002 In Cybertypes Lisa Nakamura turns a sour assumption that the Net is color blind on its head Examining all facets of everyday web life she shows that racial and ethnic stereotypes or cybertypes are hardwired into our online interactions Identity tourists masquerade in chat rooms as Asian_Geisha or Alatiniolover Web directories sharply delimit racial categories Anonymous computer users are assumed to be white Lively provocative Cybertypes takes up computer relationship between race ethnicity and technology and offers a candid and nuanced understanding of identity in the information age

A Digital Janus: Looking Forward, Looking Back Dennis Moser, Susan Dun, 2019-01-04 This volume was first published by Inter Disciplinary Press in 2014 Cyberculture and cyberspace have become part of our realities This is an inescapable fact Their digital technologies have come to underpin many aspects of our lives our history and our future Already these technologies exert considerable influence upon the institutions and structure of our societies including those that define our concepts of art and aesthetics our social interactions societal and individual remembrance even how we govern and are governed Cyberculture's ubiquity raises questions of our concepts of being and aloneness Can we experience solitude if we are all connected Will the natural state of being soon be always on always connected To remember everything is it a blessing or a curse Is the promise of digital immortality possible or even desirable When do we cease mourning if the dead are memorialized in digital perpetuity Within this volume is a collection of essays from an international group of scholars artists and practitioners who address these and other questions about our future looking at where we have come in our past
