TRABAJADOR David Montgomery, Stella Mastrangelo e tr, 1997 The Making of the Citizen-Worker Federico

Tomasello, 2023-07-31 Over the course of the 19th century European societies started thinking of themselves as civilisations of work In the wake of the political and industrial revolutions labour as a human activity and condition gradually came to embody a general principle of order progress and governance How did work become so central to our systems of citizenship and social recognition The book addresses this question by considering the French context in the long transition between the 1789 and 1848 revolutions and focusing on a specific fragment of history in the early 1830s marked by a pandemic crisis and the first consequences of industrialisation It combines the analysis of both political institutions and social movements to retrace the rise of a labour based social contract revolving around the citizen worker as the quintessential subject of rights The first part of the book highlights the role played by the genesis of the modern social sciences and analyses it as a political process that established work as an object of governance and scientific investigation thus fostering pioneering measures of welfare centred on work conditions The second part focuses on the emergence of the concept of working class and the modern labour movement which structured the world of work as a collective political subject Chapter 2 of this book is freely available as a downloadable Open Access PDF at <http://www.taylorfrancis.com> under a Creative Commons Attribution Non Commercial No Derivatives CC BY NC ND 4.0 license Economy, Work, and Education Catherine Casey, 2016-07-27

Economy Work and Education Critical Connections addresses effects of neoliberal capitalism in particular regard to work and education It reveals limits and paradoxes in macroeconomic policy imperatives toward knowledge based economies and learning societies and elaborates ensuing critical concerns and dilemmas It concludes with an exploration of innovative conceptions of social citizenship which may stimulate sources of a revitalization of work and education beyond singular economic imperatives Citizen, Mother, Worker Emilie Stoltzfus, 2003 During World War II American women entered the workforce in unprecedented numbers and many of them relied on federally funded child care programs At the end of the war working mothers vigorously protested the termination of child care subsidies In The Digital Citizenship in the
