Commercial Visions Science Trade And Visual Culture In The Dutch Golden Age:

Commercial Visions Dániel Margócsy, 2014-10-09 In Commercial Visions Daniel Margócsy shows how entrepreneurial science has been with us since the Scientific Revolution Product marketing patent litigation and even ghostwriting pervaded natural history and anatomy the big sciences of the early modern era and the growth of global trade during the Dutch Golden Age gave rise to a transnational network of such entrepreneurial science connecting natural historians physicians and curiosi in such cities as Amsterdam London St Petersburg and Danzig These practitioners were out to do business they bought and sold exotica preserved specimens anatomical prints and botanical atlases and in their trade relied on particularly mercantile innovations including postal networks shipping public transportation and international banking They also developed their own infrastructure for managing the long distance monetary exchange of scientific knowledge and curiosities while entrepreneurial rivalries secrecy and marketing strategies transformed the honorific gift based exchange system of the Republic of Letters into a competitive marketplace Throughout this process the Dutch naturalists contributed to the growth of modern science imbuing its ethos and practices with financial undertones Commercial Visions studies the interaction of commerce and science through the lens of recent scholarship on commodification the circulation of knowledge and the consumer revolution to argue that trade brought about a culture of scientific debate in the Netherlands that thoroughly influenced the visual epistemology of early modern science Market competition pitted naturalists against each other and compelled them to develop philosophical arguments to promote the representational claims of their imaging techniques Margócsy's highly readable book will be warmly welcomed by anyone interested in early modern science culture and art

The Cambridge Companion to the Dutch Golden Age Helmer J. Helmers, Geert H. Janssen, 2018-08-23 An accessible introduction to the political economic literary and artistic heritage of the Dutch Republic in the seventeenth century The Material Cultures of Enlightenment Arts and Sciences Adriana Craciun, 2016-08-24 In this book the eighteenth century Enlightenment receives an important reassessment using an astonishing range of materials and objects drawn from Europe and beyond including artefacts from India and China West Africa and Polynesia A series of authoritative essays written by experts in the field explores the full range of material culture in the long eighteenth century raising crucial questions about notions of property and invention homely and commercial lives The book also includes a series of well illustrated exhibits a startling and provocative assemblage of objects from the Enlightenment world each accompanied by expert commentaries The collection of essays and exhibits is the result of collaborative debate by scholars from Europe and north America who have together worked on the cross disciplinary importance of material history in making sense of how past society was fundamentally transformed through the world of goods The Oxford Handbook of Commodity History Jonathan Curry-Machado, Jean Stubbs, William Gervase Clarence-Smith, Jelmer Vos, 2024 The Oxford Handbook of Commodity History features contributions from scholars involved in the field's development across a range of countries and linguistic regions

Each of the handbook's thirty-one chapters focuses on an important theme within commodity history: essential approaches, global histories, modes of production, people and land, environmental impact, consumption, and new methodologies. Empire of the Senses, 2017-11-01. Empire of the Senses brings together pathbreaking scholarship on the role the five senses played in early America. With perspectives from across the hemisphere exploring individual senses and multi-sensory frameworks, the volume explores how sensory perception helped frame cultural encounters, colonial knowledge, and political relationships. From early French interpretations of intercultural touch to English plans to restructure the scent of Jamaica, these essays elucidate different ways the expansion of rival European empires across the Americas involved a vast interconnected range of sensory experiences and practices. Empire of the Senses offers a new comparative perspective on the way European imperialism was constructed, operated, implemented, and sometimes counteracted by rich and complex new sensory frameworks in the diverse contexts of early America. This book has been listed on the Books of Note section on the website of Sensory Studies, which is dedicated to highlighting the top books in sensory studies: www.sensorystudies.org/books-of-note.

Physics in Minerva's Academy, Steffen Ducheyne, 2025-01-27. This monograph explains how, in the aftermath of the battle over René Descartes' philosophy, Newton's natural philosophy found fertile ground at the University of Leiden. Newton's natural philosophical views and methods, along with their underlying distinctions, seamlessly aligned with the University of Leiden's institutional religious policy, which urged professors and students to separate theology from philosophy. Additionally, these views supported the natural philosophical agendas of Herman Boerhaave, Willem Jacob 's Gravesande, and Petrus van Musschenbroek. Newton's natural philosophical program was especially useful in the three Leiden professors' project of reforming existing disciplines and providing them with epistemic legitimacy. Renaissance skin, Evelyn Welch, 2025-07-01. A magnificently illustrated study of skin in Renaissance Europe. People in the Renaissance saw skin differently from how we do today. The Europe of 1500 to 1700 was a world of humours, and skin, the clothing of the body, was thought to be dangerously porous. In this landmark book, Evelyn Welch explores Renaissance skin as a bodily surface, as physical matter, and as a generator of new knowledge. Ranging across anatomy, surgery, and sausage making, she reveals how skin was managed by physicians as well as by glovemakers, butchers, and parchment makers. How did people protect their health in a changing global environment, one where the air itself could be pathogenic? How did they see their bodies in a world where there was suddenly a multiplicity of skin colours and decorations? Addressing these questions and more, Welch shows us what happens when you see skin differently, either in the marketplace where men and women from far away lands were put on display or under the microscope. In doing so, she reveals that the past had a distinctive and very different way of understanding bodily experiences. Nautical Rutters and New Bodies of Knowledge in the Age of the First Globalization, 1400-1600.

Luis Ribeiro, David Salomoni, Henrique Leitão, 2025-10-01. The European maritime expansion of the fifteenth century reshaped global politics, economies, and perceptions of space. Central to this transformation was the mastery of long-distance sea routes.

and the development of rutters technical documents recording navigational data and geographic observations Despite their significance rutters have often been overlooked in studies of European imperial expansion and globalization This book highlights the indispensable role of rutters and ships logbooks in early modern navigation and knowledge production Examining their legal scientific and cultural dimensions it explores their evolution influence on cartography and impact beyond Europe particularly in the Indian Ocean With contributions from experts in the field this volume underscores rutters as more than navigational aids they were pivotal instruments in shaping global interconnectedness Essential reading for historians of science maritime history and globalization this book reveals how these documents transformed Europe s perception of a world connected by oceans

New Horizons for Early Modern European Scholarship Ann

Blair,Nicholas Popper,2021-08-10 An illuminating exploration of the new frontiers and unsettled geographical temporal and thematic borders of early modern European history The study of early modern Europe has long been the source of some of the most creative and influential movements in historical scholarship New Horizons for Early Modern European Scholarship explores recent developments in historiography both to exhibit the field s continuing vibrancy and to highlight emerging challenges to long assumed truths Essays examine how key ideas and intellectual practices arose circulated through scholarly culture and gave way to subsequent forms Europe s transforming relationship with Asia the Americas Africa and the rest of the world how overlooked evidence illuminates vital but obscured people practices and objects connections between disciplines types of sources time periods and places Opening up emerging possibilities this book demonstrates that early modern European scholarship remains a source for groundbreaking historical insights and methodologies that would benefit the study of any time and place Contributors Alexander Bevilacqua Ann Blair Daniela Bleichmar William J Bulman Frederic Clark Anthony Grafton Jill Kraye Yuen Gen Liang Elizabeth McCahill Nicholas Popper Amanda Wunder

Knowledge and the Early Modern City Bert De Munck,Antonella Romano,2019-08-20 Knowledge and the Early Modern City uses case studies from the sixteenth to the eighteenth centuries to examine the relationships between knowledge and the city and how these changed in a period when the nature and conception of both was drastically transformed Both knowledge formation and the European city were increasingly caught up in broader institutional structures and regional and global networks of trade and exchange during the early modern period Moreover new ideas about the relationship between nature and the transcendent as well as technological transformations impacted upon both considerably This book addresses the entanglement between knowledge production and the early modern urban environment while incorporating approaches to the city and knowledge in which both are seen as emerging from hybrid networks in which human and non human elements continually interact and acquire meaning It highlights how new forms of knowledge and new conceptions of the urban co emerged in highly contingent practices shedding a new light on present day ideas about the impact of cities on knowledge production and innovation Providing the ideal starting point for those seeking to understand the role of urban institutions actors and spaces in the production of knowledge and the development of the so called modern knowledge society this is the perfect resource for students and scholars of early modern history and knowledge
