Commercial Aircraft Projects Commercial Aircraft Projects:

Commercial Aircraft Projects Hans-Henrich Altfeld, 2016-09-19 When it comes to very highly complex commercially funded product development projects it is not sufficient to apply standard project management techniques to manage and keep them under control. Instead they need a project management approach which is perfectly adapted to their complex nature. This however may generate additional cost and a dilemma arises because in commercially driven product developments there is the natural tendency to limit the management related costs. The development of a new commercial aircraft is no exception. In fact it can be regarded as an extreme example of this kind of project. This is why it is especially useful to analyse the project management capabilities and practices needed to manage them. Cost reductions can still be achieved by concentrating on the essential elements of some project management disciplines to maintain their principal strengths and combining them in a pragmatic way on the basis of an integrated architecture. This book goes beyond descriptions of management disciplines found elsewhere in its treatment of the architecture integration necessary to interlink product process and resources data. Only with this connectedness can the interoperation of the management essentials yield maximum efficiency and effectiveness. Commercial Aircraft Projects: Managing the Development of Highly Complex Products proposes an integrated architecture and details step by step how it can be used for the management of commercial aircraft development projects. The findings can also be applied to other industrial sectors that produce complex hardware based on design inputs.

The Global Commercial Aviation Industry Sören Eriksson, Harm-Jan Steenhuis, 2015-07-16 This book provides a state of the art overview of the changes and development of the civil international aircraft aviation industry. It offers a fully up to date account of the international developments and structure in the aircraft and aviation industries from a number of perspectives which include economic, geographical, political and technological points of view. The aircraft industry is characterized by very complex high technology products produced in relatively small quantities. The high technology requirements necessitate a high level of R D. In no other industry is it more of interdependence and cross fertilisation of advanced technology. Consequently most of the world's large aircraft companies and technology leaders have been located in Europe and North America. During the last few decades many developing countries have tried to build up an internationally competitive aircraft industry. The authors study a number of important issues including the political economy of the aircraft industry, globalization in this industry, innovation, newly industrializing economies and the aircraft industry. This book also explores regional and large aircraft transformation of the aviation industry in Central and Eastern Europe including engines, airlines, airports and airline safety. It will be of great value to students and to researchers seeking information on the aircraft industry and its development in different regions.

Managing Aviation Projects from Concept to Completion Triant G. Flouris, Dennis Lock, 2016-02-22 Triant Flouris is a prominent academic and administrator in aviation management education. Dennis Lock has more than forty years experience in practising lecturing and writing about project management When these two experts combined their considerable talents to write their earlier book Aviation Project Management it was little wonder that distinguished reviewers gave generous praise and acclaimed it as a welcome addition to what until then had been a neglected field That first title was structured as an essential primer for managers and students The authors have now written this more in depth book for managers and students who need to study aviation project management in much greater detail as well as critically connect project management within an aviation context to prudent business decision making Aviation project management is described in considerable detail throughout all stages of a lifecycle that begins when the project is only a vague concept and does not end until the project has been successfully completed fully documented and put into operational service Aviation projects have commonly failed to deliver their expected outcomes on time and have greatly exceeded their intended budgets Many of those failures would have been prevented if the project managers had adhered to the sound principles of project management as described and demonstrated throughout this book

Airplanes, the Environment, and the Human Condition Hans A. Baer, 2019-07-23 The number of airplane flights worldwide continues to grow and is one of the many drivers of climate change This book examines the aviation industry from an anthropological perspective focusing on the sector s environmental impact and the challenges facing attempts to shift to more sustainable solutions Hans Baer outlines how airplanes have become a key component of modern cultural and social life and how the world system has become increasingly dependent on them to function He critically examines current efforts to mitigate the climatic impact of the air travel and argues for a significant move away from air transport suggesting that such a shift may only be achieved through a more fundamental change in the world system
