Crossing The Salt Flats Crossing The Salt Flats:

Crossing the Salt Flats Christopher Wiseman, 1999 Christopher Wiseman invariably writes poems about basic human experiences and in this collection one of his finest he is especially concerned with his family and ancestors He emigrated from England as a young man and his wife has relatives in the United States so many of these poems involve travel but travel to one's human origins Because the emphasis is on emotions we all share however the poems are never obviously or embarrassingly private on the contrary they are readily accessible and make an immediate impact though their subtleties may not reveal themselves until they have been reread and fully absorbed The American Cross John R.

In 2008 historian Dave Phoenix decided to walk across Australia from Melbourne to the Gulf of Carpentaria following the track taken by the ill fated Burke and Wills Expedition. Now you can follow them too. Following Burke and Wills Across Australia guides you on a road trip that follows one of history's great transcontinental journeys sharing the explorers' experiences on the way. Maps lay out a route that takes you as close as possible to the Expedition's track. As you travel the outback roads you can learn all the details of the day to day journey of the Expedition from the explorers' own words and compare what you see with their descriptions of the country in 1860-61. Each chapter provides information about what to see now the location and descriptions of the markers and memorials placed along the route over the 150 years since the Expedition and places where you can stand where the explorers stood and look out over prospects they drew and described. The book is a perfect companion for those wanting to see outback Australia and at the same time understand a journey that has attained mythic status in the history of Australian exploration. Even if you want to follow only part of the track this is the book for you.
