

DBQ 10: WHAT CAUSED SECESSION?Historical Context

No event affected the United States and its people more significantly than the secession of eleven Southern states and the Civil War that followed. Four years of bloody warfare, over one-half million deaths, untold misery and destruction, and long-lasting racial and sectional hatreds resulted. Even today, almost one and a half centuries later, America is still marked—politically, economically, and socially—by these awful events.

Americans who witnessed the secession of the Southern states, and historians ever since, have argued over the causes. Why, after eighty-five years of unity and common nationhood, did the United States break apart? Were the differences between North and South so great that unity was no longer possible? Or was secession an accident, the result of mistakes, political misjudgments, and passions that overwhelmed reasonable compromise? What parts did slavery, the debate over its expansion into the territories, and the rancorous conflict of its supporters and opponents play in bringing on secession? How much blame can be placed on President Buchanan's indecisiveness? Or on Lincoln's refusal to accept the Crittenden Compromise? And what about the Kansas conflict, Dred Scott, John Brown, and other divisive factors? What were the causes? Who was to blame?

■ Directions: The following question is based on the accompanying documents (1–7). As you analyze the documents, take into account both the source of each document and the author's point of view. Be sure to

1. Carefully read the document-based question. Consider what you already know about this topic. How would you answer the question if you had no documents to examine?
2. Now, read each document carefully, underlining key phrases and words that address the document-based question. You may also wish to use the margin to make brief notes. Answer the questions that follow each document.
3. Based on your own knowledge and on the information found in the documents, formulate a thesis that directly answers the question.
4. Organize supportive and relevant information into a brief outline.
5. Write a well-organized essay proving your thesis. The essay should be logically presented and should include information both from the documents and from your own knowledge outside of the documents.

Question: What led the Southern states to secede from the Union in 1860 and 1861?
