De betrekkingen tusschen banken en industrie in Zweden ,1936 The Evolution of Financial Institutions and Markets in Twentieth-century Europe Youssef Cassis,Gerald D. Feldman,Ulf Olsson,1995 The last decade has witnessed widespread deregulation in major international financial centres and an increased globalization of financial activities This phenomenon which raises the question of the relationship between finance and the real economy has been widely discussed by financial analysts but has not yet been placed in its historical perspective This is one of the first books to address this important problem The editors and contributors take as their point of departure the current state of various financial institutions and the ways in which their distinctive features and contemporary tendencies developed They go on to assess the relationship between the evolution of financial markets and institutions and overall economic development A wide range of institutions and markets is covered including central commercial savings and investment banks stock markets and other capital markets Although most of the chapters concentrate on institutions several of them apply recent theories and empirical methods such as asset pricing theories tests for market efficiency event studies and market integration The chapters employ a variety of approaches representative of the best current research practices in financial history and deal with nine different countries However they converge on three interrelated questions the stability efficiency and discipline of the financial sector Hence the book will appeal to economic historians as well as to economists and financial analysts BOOK JACKET Title Summary field provided by Blackwell North America Inc All Rights Reserved *De Betrekkingen Tusschen Banken en Industrie in Zweden, Etc.
