Designing With Nature The Ecological Basis For Architectural Design:

Designing with Nature Ken Yeang, 1995 A timely incisive book providing a comprehensive framework for designing buildings that work with nature Offering a compelling case for ecological design it provides architects and designers with a full understanding of the impact that their work has on the natural environment as well as what can be done to mitigate the damage man made structures inflict on the natural environment

Designing for Hope Dominique Hes, Chrisna du Plessis, 2014-10-17 A forward looking book on sustainable design that describes problems and then by providing a different way to conceptualise design and development leads on to examples of regenerative solutions Its aim is to move the discussion away from doing less but still detracting from our ecological capital to positively contributing and adding to this capital This book offers a hopeful response to the often frightening changes and challenges we face arguing that we can actively create a positive and abundant future through mindful contributive engagement that is rooted in a living systems based worldview Concepts and practices such as Regenerative Development Biophilic Design Biomimicry Permaculture and Positive Development are explored through interviews and case studies from the built environment to try and answer questions such as How can projects focus on creating a positive ecological footprint and contribute to community How can we as practitioners restore and enrich the relationships in our projects and How does design focus hope and create a positive legacy

The Routledge Companion to Biology in Art and Architecture Charissa Terranova, Meredith Tromble, 2016-08-12 The Routledge Companion to Biology in Art and Architecture collects thirty essays from a transdisciplinary array of experts on biology in art and architecture The book presents a diversity of hybrid art and science thinking revealing how science and culture are interwoven The book situates bioart and bioarchitecture within an expanded field of biology in art architecture and design It proposes an emergent field of biocreativity and outlines its historical and theoretical foundations from the perspective of artists architects designers scientists historians and theoreticians Includes over 150 black and white images

Architectural Theory, Volume 2 Harry Francis Mallgrave, Christina Contandriopoulos, 2008-08-11 This second volume of the landmark Architectural Theory anthology surveys the development of architectural theory from the Franco Prussian war of 1871 until the end of the twentieth century The entire two volume anthology follows the full range of architectural literature from classical times to present transformations An ambitious anthology bringing together over 300 classic and contemporary essays that survey the key developments and trends in architecture Spans the period from 1871 to 2005 from John Ruskin and the arts and crafts movement in Great Britain through to the development of Lingang New City and the creation of a metropolis in the East China sea Organized thematically featuring general and section introductions and headnotes to each essay written by a renowned expert on architectural theory Places the work of architects like Koolhaas Eisenman and Lynn alongside the work of prominent architectural critics offering a balanced perspective on current debates Includes many hard to find texts and works never previously translated into English Alongside Volume I An Anthology from Vitruvius to 1870 creates a stunning overview of architectural theory from early antiquity to the twenty first century

The Greening of Architecture Phillip James Tabb,A. Senem Deviren,2017-03-02 Contemporary architecture and the culture it reflects dependent as it is on fossil fuels has contributed to the cause and necessity of a burgeoning green process that emerged over the past half century This text is the first to offer a comprehensive critical history and analysis of the greening of architecture through accumulative reduction of negative environmental effects caused by buildings urban designs and settlements Describing the progressive development of green architecture from 1960 to 2010 it illustrates how it is ever evolving and ameliorated through alterations in form technology materials and use and it examines different places worldwide that represent a diversity of cultural and climatic contexts The book is divided into seven chapters with an overview of the environmental issues and the nature of green architecture in response to them followed by an historic perspective of the pioneering evolution of green technology and architectural integration over the past five decades and finally providing the intransigent and culturally pervasive current examples within a wide range of geographic territories The greening of architecture is seen as an evolutionary process that is informed by significant world events climate change environmental theories movements in architecture technological innovations and seminal works in architecture and planning throughout each decade over the past fifty years This time period is bounded on one end by the awareness of environmental problems beginning in the 1960 s the influential texts by Rachel Carson E F Schumacher Buckminster Fuller and Steward Brand and the impact of the OPEC Oil Embargo of 1973 and on the other end the pervasiveness of the necessary greening of architecture that includes systemic reforms in architectural and urban design land use planning transportation agriculture and energy production found in the 2000 s The greening process moves from remediation to holistic models of architecture Geographical landscapes give a global account of the greening process where some examples are parallel and sympathetic and others are in clear contrast to one another with very individuated approaches Certain events like the Rio Summit in 1992 and Kyoto Protocol in 1997 and themes such as the Hannover Principles in 2000 provide a dynamic ideological critique as well as a formal and technical discussion of the embodied and accumulative content of greening principles in architecture

Building Ecology Peter Graham,2009-02-12 Buildings consume 40% of our planet s materials and 30% of its energy Their construction uses up to three million tonnes of raw materials a year and generates 20% of the solid waste stream If we want to survive our urban future there is no option but to build in ways which improve the health of ecosystems Understanding the concept of ecological sustainability and translating it into practice as sustainable development is a key challenge for today s built environment professionals The skill and vision of those who shape our cities and homes is vital to achieving sustainable solutions to the many environmental economic and social problems we face on a local national and global scale Peter Graham offers here a holistic view of ecologically sustainable building by drawing on established areas of knowledge demonstrating their relevance to the environmentally conscious building professional and putting the process product and impact of building into context Case studies illustrate how sustainable principles have been applied successfully and discussion topics are offered to stimulate thought Building Ecology will help planners surveyors designers and builders to incorporate sustainability into their everyday practice by showing which styles of building are ecologically sustainable providing fundamental knowledge for making decisions using the principles of ecologically sustainable building explaining a complex subject in a clear balanced way Building Ecology sets out the current scientific view of how nature works and how buildings link with and affect nature It provides fundamental knowledge for building in harmony with nature and keeping Earth s life supporting ecosystems healthy

Sustainable Heritage Amalia Leifeste, Barry L. Stiefel, 2018-06-14 This book brings together ecological conservation theory and heritage preservation theory and shows how these two realms have common purpose Through theoretical discussion and illustrative examples Sustainable Heritage reframes the history of multiple movements within preservation and sustainable design strategies into cross disciplinary themes Through topics such as Cultural Relationships with Nature Ecology Biodiversity Energy and Resource Systems Integrating Biodiversity into the Built Environment Rehabilitation Practice Fixing the Shortcomings Within Community Design Planning and Policy Strategies for Adapting Buildings and Structures for Rising Sea Levels and Vehicles as a Microcosm of Approaching Built Environment Rehabilitation the book explores contemporary ecological and heritage ethics as a strategy for improving the livability of the built environment The authors provide a holistic critique of the challenges we face in light of climate and cultural changes occurring from the local to the global level It synthesizes the best practices offered by separate disciplines as one cohesive way forward toward sustainable design The authors consider strategies for increasing the physical and cultural longevity of the built environment why these two are so closely paired and the potential their overlap offers for sustained and meaningful inhabitation Sustainable Heritage unites students and professionals in a wide range of disciplines with one common language and more closely aligned sets of objectives for preservation and sustainable design

Courtyard Housing and Cultural Sustainability Donia Zhang, 2016-05-13 Cultural sustainability is a very important aspect of the overall sustainability framework and is regarded as the fourth pillar alongside the other three environmental economic and social sustainability However the concept is neither fully explored nor widely accepted or recognized This book elicits the interplay of nature culture architecture and theorizes the concept of cultural sustainability and culturally sustainable architecture It identifies four key themes in Chinese philosophy Harmony with Heaven Harmony with Earth Harmony with Humans and Harmony with Self along with Greek philosopher Aristotle s physics form space matter and time it sets them as criteria to evaluate the renewed and new courtyard housing projects constructed in China since the 1990s Using an innovative architectural and social science approach this book examines the political economic social and spatial factors that affect cultural sustainability Supported by a multiplicity of data including field surveys interviews with residents architects and planners time diaries drawings photos planning documents observation notes and real estate brochures the book proposes new courtyard garden house design strategies that promote healthy communities and human care for one another a concept that is universally applicable The volume is a first opportunity to take a holistic view to encompass eastern and western tangible and intangible cultures in the theorization of cultural sustainability and culturally sustainable architecture It is a comprehensive contribution to architectural theory
