The CICALing conferences are intended to provide a wide scope forum for the discussion of both the art and craft of natural language processing research and the best practices in its applications. This volume contains the papers accepted for oral presentation at the conference as well as several of the best papers accepted for poster presentation. Other papers accepted for poster presentation were published in special issues of other journals. See the information on the website. Since 2001 the CICALing proceedings have been published in Springer's Lecture Notes in Computer Science series as volumes 2004, 2276, 2588, 2945, 3406, 3878, and 4394. The book consists of 12 sections representative of the main tasks and applications of Natural Language Processing: Language resources, Morphology and syntax, Semantics and discourse, Word sense disambiguation and named entity recognition, Anaphora and coreference, Machine translation and parallel corpora, Natural language generation, Speech recognition, Information retrieval and question answering, Text classification, Text summarization, Spell checking and authoring aid. A total of 204 papers by 438 authors from 39 countries were submitted for evaluation; see Tables 1 and 2. Each submission was reviewed by at least two independent Program Committee members. This volume contains revised versions of 52 papers by 129 authors from 24 countries selected for inclusion in the conference program; the acceptance rate was 25.5%.

Handbook of Writing and Text Production Eva-Maria Jakobs, Daniel Perrin, 2014-08-19. Writing matters and so does research into real life writing. The shift from an industrial to an information society has increased the importance of writing and text production in education, in everyday life, and in more and more professions in the fields of economics and politics, science and technology, culture and media. Through writing we build up organizations and social networks, develop projects, inform colleagues and customers, and generate the basis for decisions. The quality of writing is decisive for social resonance and professional success. This ubiquitous real life writing is what the present handbook is about. The de Gruyter Handbook of Writing and Text Production brings together and systematizes state-of-the-art research. The volume contains five sections.

focussing on I the theory and methodology of writing and text production research as well as on problem oriented and problem solving approaches related to II authors III modes and media IV genres and V domains of writing and text production Throughout the 21 chapters exemplary research projects illustrate the theoretical perspectives from globally relevant research spaces and traditions Both established and future scholars can benefit from the handbook s fresh approach to writing in the context of multimodal multi semiotic text production

Automatic Text Summarization Juan-Manuel Torres-Moreno,2014-11-10 Textual information in the form of digital documents quickly accumulates to create huge amounts of data The majority of these documents are unstructured it is unrestricted text and has not been organized into traditional databases Processing documents is therefore a perfunctory task mostly due to a lack of standards It has thus become extremely difficult to implement automatic text analysis tasks Automatic Text Summarization ATS by condensing the text while maintaining relevant information can help to process this ever increasing difficult to handle mass of information This book examines the motivations and different algorithms for ATS The author presents the recent state of the art before describing the main problems of ATS as well as the difficulties and solutions provided by the community The book provides recent advances in ATS as well as current applications and trends The approaches are statistical linguistic and symbolic Several examples are also included in order to clarify the theoretical concepts

Natural Language Processing of Semitic Languages Imed Zitouni,2014-04-22 Research in Natural Language Processing NLP has rapidly advanced in recent years resulting in exciting algorithms for sophisticated processing of text and speech in various languages Much of this work focuses on English in this book we address another group of interesting and challenging languages for NLP research the Semitic languages The Semitic group of languages includes Arabic 206 million native speakers Amharic 27 million Hebrew 7 million Tigrinya 6 7 million Syriac 1 million and Maltese 419 thousand Semitic languages exhibit unique morphological processes challenging syntactic constructions and various other phenomena that are less prevalent in other natural languages These challenges call for unique solutions many of which are described in this book

The 13 chapters presented in this book bring together leading scientists from several universities and research institutes worldwide. While this book devotes some attention to cutting edge algorithms and techniques its primary purpose is a thorough explication of best practices in the field. Furthermore every chapter describes how the techniques discussed apply to Semitic languages. The book covers both statistical approaches to NLP which are dominant across various applications nowadays and the more traditional rule based approaches that were proven useful for several other application domains. We hope that this book will provide a one stop shop for all the requisite background and practical advice when building NLP applications for Semitic languages.

Word Embeddings: Reliability & Semantic Change Johannes Hellrich, 2019-08-15

Word embeddings are a form of distributional semantics increasingly popular for investigating lexical semantic change. However typical training algorithms are probabilistic limiting their reliability and the reproducibility of studies. Johannes Hellrich investigated this problem both empirically and theoretically and found some variants of SVD based algorithms to be unaffected. Furthermore he created the JeSemE website to make word embedding based diachronic research more accessible. It provides information on changes in word denotation and emotional connotation in five diachronic corpora. Finally the author conducted two case studies on the applicability of these methods by investigating the historical understanding of electricity as well as words connected to Romanticism. They showed the high potential of distributional semantics for further applications in the digital humanities.
