Case Gynecologic Surgery Lange Case :

Complications in Gynecological Surgery Peter O'Donovan, 2008-10-30 Risk management is a relatively new process that can sometimes evoke feelings of suspicion among clinicians. However, when used proactively, it offers the opportunity to act at the root cause of an incident to expose deficiencies in the system rather than in individuals. This process encourages a supportive approach to patients, relatives, and staff. The overall aim should be to learn lessons rather than to attribute blame. Cases in Obstetrics and Gynaecology, Second Edition Cecilia Bottomley, Janice Rymer, 2014-09-09. A 35-year-old woman arrives on the labour ward complaining of abdominal pain and vaginal bleeding at 36 weeks 2 days gestation. The pain started 2 hours earlier while she was in a cafe and is not relieved by lying still or walking around. The bleeding is bright red. You are the medic on duty. 100 Cases in Obstetrics and Gynaecology presents 100 obstetric or gynaecology-related scenarios commonly seen by medical students and junior doctors in the emergency department, outpatient clinic, or on the ward. A succinct summary of the patient's history, examination, and initial investigations, including photographs where relevant, is followed by questions on the diagnosis and management of each case. The answer includes a detailed discussion on each topic, with further illustration where appropriate, providing an essential revision aid as well as a practical guide for students and junior doctors. Making speedy and appropriate clinical decisions and choosing the best course of action to take as a result is one of the most important and challenging parts of training to become a doctor. These true-to-life cases will teach students and junior doctors to recognize important obstetric and gynaecological conditions and to develop their diagnostic and management skills. , 1924 Surgery in Gynecological Oncology A.P.M. Heintz, C.T. Griffiths, J.B. Trimbo, 2012-12-06. Gynecological oncology surgery has shown substantial progress in recent years. Most of the advances come from gynecologists with full-time commitments to gynecological oncology. It is important for the general obstetrician-gynecologist to be informed about the possibilities offered by modern gynecological oncology. Thus, he or she may acquire new techniques which can be used in general gynecological practice On the other hand it is essential to know what his or her colleagues specialised in gynecological oncology can offer in oncology centres The chapters in this book are based on a post graduate course organised by the Boerhaave Committee for post graduate medical education of the medical faculty of the University of Leiden in the Netherlands In view of the considerable interest shown by many highly qualified specialists we are extremely grateful to our contributors who were prepared to lucidly present their knowledge and expertise within the covers of the present book One of the conclusion of this book must be that the special surgical skills needed for adequate treatment of gynecological cancer cannot be developed within general residency programs Thus European gynecologists should examine whether and to what extent additional training as usual in the U S A is necessary The editors want to thank the Royal College of Obstericians and Gynecologists for their kind permission to reproduce the contribution of J A Jordan chapter 7 from pre clinical neoplasia of the cervix London 1982 A P M Heintz M D C Th G i66ith M D Minimally Invasive Gynecologic Surgery:
