

Reaction Rates and Equilibrium Study Guide

ANSWER KEY

- Describe how each of the following factors would affect the rate of a chemical reaction in terms of "particle collisions" in your response.
 - Temperature decreases If temperature decreases, the particles move slower and there will be less reactant particle collisions AND a smaller percentage of particles have enough energy to produce a reaction. The reaction rate will therefore decrease.
 - Addition of iodide ions, I^- , as a catalyst The presence of the catalyst speeds up the reaction taking place. This means that a larger percentage of particles have enough energy to produce a reaction. The reaction rate will therefore increase.
 - Increased reactant concentration With more reactant particles, there are more collisions between those particles. This means the reaction rate will increase.
 - Crushing a solid into a powder (with larger surface area) As a powder, there is more surface area for collisions to take place. This means there will be more collisions and a faster reaction rate.
- The reaction progress diagram shows the energy changes that take place when nitrogen dioxide gas reacts with carbon monoxide gas.
