Complex Emergencies Karen Finn, 2018 Child Health in Complex Emergencies Program on Forced Migration and Health, Mailman School of Public Health, Columbia University, National Research Council, Committee on Population, Roundtable on the Demography of Forced Migration, Lulu Muhe, William M. Weiss, Anne Henderson Siegle, Dory Storms, Meenakshi Ramakrishnan, William J. Moss, 2005-12-08 Addressing the health needs of children in complex emergencies is critical to the success of relief efforts and requires coordinated and effective interventions However little systematic work has been undertaken to evaluate such care To address this need this monograph presents a review of the published literature in this area providing background on the burden of disease the major causes of morbidity and mortality and the evidence base for effective interventions It also describes surveys of nongovernmental organizations NGOs and international agencies providing care to children in complex emergencies which were conducted to identify guidelines commonly used to provide such care and assesses the content and limitations of these guidelines A more in depth survey of several organizations was also conducted to assess obstacles to this kind of care On the basis of the survey findings and the review of the published literature the working group recommended that evidence based locally adapted guidelines to address the curative and preventive care of children in complex emergencies and health systems planning should be adopted by ministries of health and supported by the World Health Organization WHO and UNICEF The guidelines should target as much as possible the different levels of health care workers providing care to children to ensure appropriate effective and uniform care in a variety of situations Child Health in Complex Emergencies presents specific examples of areas for further research and guideline development This report is not intended to be an exhaustive and definitive assessment of child health in complex emergencies The topic is much too vast and complex and different individuals and institutions will have incompatible perspectives Rather we aim to provide a starting point for discussion and debate on how to improve the care of children in these settings
