Cross Docking Centern Multiagentensystemen Wertschoepfungsmanagement Value Added Management:

Multi-Item, Multi-Supplier, Multi-Retailer Eoq-Based Cross-Docking Model Amir Khakbaz, Hesham Kamal Alfares, 2023

Nowadays the retail industry accounts for a large share of the world's economy. Cross docking is one of the most effective inventory management systems used by retail companies to meet the demands efficiently. In this study, the aim is to develop a new cross docking EOQ based model for a retail company. By considering a two stage inventory procurement process, a new multi item multi supplier multi retailer EOQ model is developed to minimize the total inventory costs. In the first stage, the required items are received from suppliers and are held in a central warehouse. In the second stage, these items are delivered to several retail stores. The total inventory costs include four main parts: i.e. holding costs at the central warehouse, holding costs at the retail stores, fixed ordering costs from the suppliers, and fixed ordering costs from the central warehouse. The optimal inventory policy is obtained by analyzing extrema, and a numerical example is used to confirm the efficiency of the proposed model. Based on the obtained results, it is evident that the proposed model produces the optimal policy for the cross docking system. Furthermore, the model enables managers to analyze the effects of key factors on the costs of the system.
