Coventry November 14 1940:

Coventry Frederick Taylor,2015-10-22 At a few minutes past seven on the evening of Thursday 14 November 1940 the historic industrial city of Coventry was subjected to the longest most devastating air raid Britain had yet experienced Only after eleven hours of continual bombardment by the German Luftwaffe could its people emerge from their half sunk Anderson shelters and their cellars from under their stairs or kitchen tables to venture up into their wounded city That long night of destruction marked a critical moment in the Second World War It heralded a new kind of air warfare one which abandoned the pursuit of immediate military goals and instead focused on obliterating all aspects of city life It also provided the push America needed to join Britain in the war But while the Coventry raid was furiously condemned publically such effective enemy tactics provided Britain s politicians and military establishment with a blueprint for obliteration to be adapted and turned against Germany A merciless four year war of attrition had begun In this important work of history Frederick Taylor draws upon numerous sources including eye witness interviews from the archives of the BBC which are published here for the first time to reveal the true repercussions of the bombing of Coventry in 1940 He teases out the truth behind the persistent rumours and conspiracy theories that Churchill knew the raid was coming assesses this significant turning point in modern warfare looks at how it affected Britain s status in the war and considers finally whether this attack really could provide justification for the horror of Dresden 1945
