Crimes Against Humanity Birth Of A Concept:

Crimes Against Humanity Norman Geras, 2013-07-19 This book tells the story of the emergence of the concept of crimes against humanity. It examines its origins, the ethical assumptions underpinning it, its legal and philosophical boundaries, and some of the controversies connected with it. A brief historical introduction is followed by an exploration of the various meanings of the term crimes against humanity that have been suggested. A definition is proposed, linking it to the idea of basic human rights. The book looks at some problems with the boundaries of the concept, the threshold for its proper application, and the related issue of humanitarian intervention. It concludes with a discussion of the prospects for the further development of crimes against humanity law. The work serves as a clear and compact introduction for students of politics, philosophy, and law, as well as for the general reading public.

Humanness as a Protected Legal Interest of Crimes Against Humanity Rustam Atadjanov, 2019-06-13 Central to this book is the concept of humanity in international law. It traces the evolution of that concept within international law, studies the existing theories of crimes against humanity, and lays out its own theory based on an inclusive view of humanity. Crimes against humanity are core crimes under international law; their modern definition is found in the Rome Statute. However, their protective scope remains unclear, with the exact meaning of humanity left undefined in law. The proposed theory argues that humanity should be understood as humanness, and crimes against humanity should be criminalised because humanness constitutes these crimes' valid protected interest. This volume in the International Criminal Justice Series offers an analysis of the German doctrine of Rechtsgut to justify the penalization of crimes against humanity at both domestic and international levels. This is the first monograph on crimes against humanity written by an author from the Commonwealth of Independent States (CIS), aimed at an international audience and should constitute a useful tool for academics, students, and practitioners of international law. Rustam Atadjanov LLB, LL.M., Dr. jur., attained his Ph.D. at the University of Hamburg in Germany and is a former Legal Adviser to the Regional Delegation of the International Committee of the Red Cross in Central Asia, Tashkent, Uzbekistan.

Crimes against Humanity in the 21st Century Robert Dubler SC, Matthew Kalyk, 2018-07-23 In Crimes Against Humanity in the 21st Century, Dr. Robert Dubler SC and Matthew Kalyk provide a comprehensive analysis of crimes against humanity in international criminal law. The text tracks the crime from its conceptual origins in antiquity to its emergence in customary international law at Nuremberg, to the establishment of the modern definition at the Hague with the ICTY, ICTR, and ICC, and finally to recent state practice and jurisprudence. The text sets out conclusions about the legal elements of the crime and contends that the raison d'être of the crime is located not in the inhumanity of its authors' actions, but in the extent to which its authors threaten international peace and security, so as to justify international intervention. With a foreword by Geoffrey Robertson QC.

Legality Matters Gillian MacNeil, 2021-02-12 This book examines the way international criminal courts and tribunals have interpreted the crimes against humanity proscription of other inhumane acts. This clause is consistently used in spite of the long list of more specific offences forbidden as crimes against humanity The volume proposes that the current approach is based on a misunderstanding of the nature of the clause Properly understood the clause is an invitation to courts to create and apply retroactive criminal laws This leads to a problem A prohibition on the use of retroactive criminal laws one which admits no exceptions is deeply embedded in international law The author argues that it is time to revisit the assumption that retroactive criminal laws can never be deployed in a fair legal system Drawing lessons from an exploration on the way the prohibition on retroactive laws is applied in practice she proposes a new framework for understanding the clause proscribing the commission of other inhumane acts This book will be of relevance to anyone interested in international criminal law or criminal law theory Gillian MacNeil is Assistant Professor at Robson Hall the Faculty of Law of the University of Manitoba in Winnipeg Canada

The Humanity of Universal Crime Sinja Graf, 2021-02-15 The international crime of crimes against humanity has become integral to contemporary political and legal discourse However the conceptual core of the term an act against all of mankind has a longer and deeper history in international political thought In an original excavation of this history The Humanity of Universal Crime examines theoretical mobilizations of the idea of universal crime in colonial and post colonial contexts Sinja Graf demonstrates the overlooked centrality of humanity and criminality to political liberalism s historical engagement with world politics thereby breaking with the exhaustively studied status of individual rights in liberal thought Graf argues that invocations of universal crime project humanity as a normatively integrated yet minimally inclusive and hierarchically structured subject Such visions of humanity have in turn underwritten justifications of foreign rule and outsider intervention based on claims to an injury universally suffered by all mankind Foregrounding the political productivity of universal crime the book traces the intellectual history of the rise fall and reappearance of notions of universal crime in political theory over time It looks particularly at the way European theorists have deployed the concept in assessing the legitimacy of colonial rule and foreign intervention in non European societies The book argues that an inclusionary Eurocentrism subtends the authorizing and coercive dimensions of universal crime Unlike much studied exclusionary Eurocentrist thinking inclusionary Eurocentrist arguments have historically extended an unequal repressive recognition via liability to non European peoples Overall the book offers a novel view of how claims to act in the name of humanity are deeply steeped in practices that reproduce structures of inequality at a global level particularly across political empires

Revolutions in International Law Kathryn Greenman, Anne Orford, Anna Saunders, Ntina Tzouvala, 2021-02-18 The 1917 October Revolution and the revolutionary Mexican Constitution shook the foundations of international law This collection revisits their legacies

Global Justice and Our Epochal Mind Xunwu Chen, 2019-10-23 Global Justice and Our Epochal Mind explores the mind of our epoch defined as the period since the Nuremberg Trial and the establishment of the United Nations in 1945 Xunwu Chen examines four defining ideas of this epoch global justice cosmopolitanism crimes against humanity and cultural toleration as well as the structural relationships among these ideas Chen argues that the mind of our epoch is essentially the mind of humanity Its world view horizon standpoint norms standards and vocabularies are of humanity by humanity and for humanity and all are embodied in human institutions and practices throughout the globe Meanwhile our epochal mind has a dialectical relationship with particular cultures bearing normative force As a metaphysical subjectivity and substance humanity is the source of all human values in our epoch and defines what can and should be human values and virtues Humankind therefore are a people with socio political and legal sovereignty sharing a common fate This novel study brings a cross cultural approach and will be of great interest to students and scholars of philosophy political science sociology and the humanities more broadly

The Norman Geras Reader Ben Cohen, Eve Garrard, 2017-07-21 This is the first book to gather the key writings of the distinguished political theorist Norman Geras into a single volume providing a comprehensive overview of the thinking of one of the most important Marxist philosophers in the post war era Among the essays included here are The Controversy about Marx and Justice The Duty to Bring Aid Primo Levi and Jean Amery Shame and the contentious Euston Manifesto which lays down a set of central principles for the democratic left in the twenty first century The reader is rounded out with several posts from Geras's much loved and widely read Normblog as well as companion essays by Alan Johnson and Terry Glavin which explore how Geras's philosophical concerns led to his more recent trenchant critiques of the direction of left wing politics
