

Comparison between two films Essay Example

In this essay I am going to present a comparative analysis of how an iconic central character is represented in both 'The Queen' and 'Batman Begins'. Despite the fact that this character is present in both materials, there are different techniques used to portray these characters in a certain way. Since the genre and audience is different between the two films, the mise-en-scene varies to create the required effect. In 'the Queen', the mise-en-scene is used to create the impression that the royal family is quite distant from the realities of normal life, and that they are extremely privileged. In contrast to this, 'Batman Begins' uses techniques to show that the main setting, the city of Gotham, is a dishonest and sinister place.

Seeing that 'Batman Begins' is aimed at a younger audience, it is unable to show a lot of violence. Therefore non-diegetic sound is used to convey a sense of aggression and brutality. 'The Queen' is composed of predominantly diegetic sound. This presents more a documentary or biography-esque type film, suggesting that what you see in the film is a true representation of the royal family. Since there is dialogue throughout the majority of the film, the characters emotions are represented by the dialogue, so there is no need to expose these through the use of non-diegetic sound. Music is used throughout the whole of 'Batman Begins', to create a more dramatic feel, as well as emphasising certain parts of the film.

This is most common when batman appears, which creates the impression that he is a powerful heroic character, in contrast to when his alter-ego, Bruce Wayne, is on screen. The orchestral and deep percussion music helps to portray a sense of menace and threat. Unlike 'Batman Begins', 'the Queen' rarely has music, except to emphasise certain parts of the film or emotions. This is usually when there is no speech to produce a sense of feeling, for example it sets the emotion tone at the funeral. Most of the film 'the Queen' is set in large and clearly expensive estates, such as Buckingham Palace and Balmoral estate, however there is shots of Tony Blair in his house that many people would connect with.

This is used to further impose the contrast between the affluence and advantages of royalty and other people. It also makes them prime minister seems normal and down-to-earth. Setting 'Batman Begins' in a city similar to Chicago, allows the audience to relate what they are seeing, perhaps allowing them to create a stereotypical impression of what life and crime would be like in Gotham. 'The Queen' uses a subtle approach to props and costume which again shows her superiority.

For example they are constantly in formal clothes, unlike the prime minister and members of the public who are seen in the pyjamas or casual attire. This depicts the royal family as out of touch with the British Public. In comparison, there are a number of props and costumes used in 'Batman Begins', particularly the bat

How the Essay Film Thinks Laura Rascaroli, 2017-05-05 This book offers a novel understanding of the epistemological strategies that are mobilized by the essay film and of where and how such strategies operate Against the backdrop of Adorno's discussion of the essay form's anachronistic anti-systematic and disjunctive mode of resistance and capitalizing on the centrality of the interstice in Deleuze's understanding of the cinema as image of thought the book discusses the essay film as future philosophy as a contrarian political cinema whose argumentation engages with us in a space beyond the verbal A diverse range of case studies discloses how the essay film can be a medium of thought on the basis of its dialectic use of audiovisual interstitiality The book shows how the essay film's disjunctive method comes to be realized at the level of medium montage genre temporality sound narration and framing all of these emerging as interstitial spaces of intelligence that illustrate how essayistic meaning can be sustained often in contexts of political historical or cultural extremity The essayistic urge is not to be identified with a fixed generic form but is rather situated within processes of filmic thinking that thrive in gaps

Sport in Films Emma Poulton, Martin Roderick, 2019-05-30 Sport offers everything a good story should have heroes and villains triumph and disaster achievement and despair tension and drama Consequently sport makes for a compelling film narrative and films in turn are a vivid medium for sport Yet despite its regularity as a central theme in motion pictures constructions and representations of sport and athletes have been marginalised in terms of serious analysis within the longstanding academic study of films and documentaries In this collection it is the critical study of film and its connections to sport that are examined The collection is one of the first of its kind to examine the ways in which sport has been used in films as a metaphor for other areas of social life Among the themes and issues explored by the contributors are Morality tales in which good triumphs over evil The representation and ideological framing of social identities including class gender race and nationality The representation of key issues pertinent to sport including globalization politics commodification consumerism and violence The meanings spoken by films and the various readings which audiences make of them This is a timely collection that draws together a diverse range of accessible insightful and ground breaking new essays This book was published as a special issue of Sport in Society
