Edited by two long-time leaders in the field, the book includes contributions from many other experienced leaders and scholars of community colleges.

The Oxford Handbook of Leadership Michael G. Rumsey, 2013. Graduate Students' Research about Community Colleges Deborah L. Floyd, Cristobal Salinas Jr., Ethan C. Swingle, María-Jose Zeledón-Pérez, Sim Barhoum, Gianna Ramdin, 2021-05-13. This book brings together a collection of chapters with different research designs that explore the research practice and policies of community colleges. The chapters in this book are the result of the graduate students and their faculty mentors' scholarly work and a rigorous special issue's peer review process. Furthermore, this book offers recommendations on how to mentor graduate students in the absence of research and mentorship, on how to publish for graduate students and practitioner scholars, as well as recognizing that graduate programs and professional associations are important in the socialization of practitioner scholars. Each book chapter addresses the implications for practice and future research policy for community colleges and recommendation for change indicated by the research results. Five broad research themes: higher education policy, leadership practices and roles, network community, student success, and technology emerged from the empirical articles and critical reviews. A final chapter shares advice and lessons learned from the 30 authors and mentors. With the exception of Chapter 14, the chapters in this book were originally published as a special issue of the Community College Journal of Research and Practice.
