

Abstract: How is a morphologically ambiguous form that can mean either 'How is it going?' or 'How are you?'.

- 1.1 There are two types of feeding – filter feeding and grazing. Filter feeding is done by organisms that have a specialized structure called a filter. A filter is a structure that allows water to pass through it, but traps the food particles. The filter is made of a fine mesh or sieve. The water is drawn into the filter, and the food particles are trapped. The filter is then moved back and forth, and the food is eaten. Grazing is done by organisms that have a specialized structure called a mouth. A mouth is a structure that allows an organism to take in food. The mouth is made of a specialized tissue called the pharynx. The pharynx is a muscular structure that can contract and relax. When the pharynx contracts, it draws food into the mouth. The food is then chewed and swallowed.
