McGillen, 2019-07-25 Winner of the Aldo and Jeanne Scaglione Prize for Studies in Germanic Languages and Literatures. Awarded by the MLA With an innovative approach that combines material media history, media theory and literary poetics, this book reconstructs the great German writer Theodor Fontane's creative process. Petra McGillen follows Fontane into the engine room of his text production. Analyzing a wealth of unexplored archival evidence which includes a collection of the author's 67 extant notebooks along with an array of other paper tools such as cardboard boxes, envelopes and slips, McGillen demonstrates how Fontane compiled his realist prose works. That is, he assembled them from premediated sources literally with scissors and glue in an extraordinarily inorganic and radically intertextual manner that turned writing into a process of ongoing remix. By exploring the far-reaching implications of Fontane's creative practices for our understanding of his authorship, originality and poetics, this book opens up a completely new way to think about his works and, by extension, 19th-century literary realism. This conceptualization of authors' notebooks as creative tools makes a substantial contribution to scholarship on the history of writing media in several disciplines, from German studies and literary studies to media history and to our understanding of the relationship between mass media and literary creativity in the late 19th century.

Homöopathische Apotheken in Württemberg Ines Winterhagen, 2020-09-30 Württemberg war im 19. Jahrhundert eine Hochburg der Homöopathie, die in allen Gesellschaftsschichten von den Arbeitern bis zum Königshaus zahlreiche Anhänger hatte. Ärzte und große Laienverbände wie die Hahnemannia sorgten für Bedarf und Absatz. Trotz Streitigkeiten um das Dispensierrecht etablierten sich seit Ende der 1850er Jahre und bis zum Ersten Weltkrieg in Württemberg rund 40 homöopathische Apotheken und Dispensatorien. Mit dieser institutionellen Verankerung der Homöopathie und der daraus resultierenden guten Versorgungslage mit homöopathischen Arzneimitteln nahm Württemberg eine Sonderstellung gegenüber den anderen deutschen Ländern ein. Mit der Zeit erwarben sich viele Apotheker durch ein breitgefächertes homöopathisches Arzneimittelsortiment ein Unterscheidungsmerkmal zu den allopathischen Apotheken. In Zeiten zunehmenden Existenzkampfes erweiterten sie so ihren Absatzmarkt und damit ihren Kundenstamm. Ines Winterhagen zeichnet ein facettenreiches Bild dieser Entwicklung vor dem Hintergrund der Industrialisierung und des Kampfes um die Homöopathie als Heilweise, der bis heute nicht an Dynamik verloren hat. Materielle Kultur und Konsum in der Frühen Neuzeit Julia A.
