Assessment of Risk from Low-Level Exposure to Radiation and Chemicals A. D. Woodhead, 2013-11-21 The present workshop had its origins in discussions among Alexander Hollaender Oddvar Nygaard Donald Borg Richard Setlow and Victor Bond on the need for a symposium that would deal with a broad spectrum of pressing subjects related to the physics chemistry and biological actions of ionizing radiations and the theoretical and practical problems of risk assessment It soon became apparent that the spectrum of subjects considered was too broad for the desired depth of coverage in fact it seemed unlikely that the conference participants would have the background knowledge to span the gamut Therefore two separate meetings were decided upon the first of which Comparison of Mechanisms of Carcinogenesis by Radiation and Chemical Agents was held at the National Bureau of Standards Gaithersburg on December 6 7 1983 The meeting was sponsored by the NCI The second meeting has emerged as the present workshop at Brookhaven National Laboratory An interface between the two conferences has been provided by Michael Fry and Donald Borg who have summarized the salient points emanating from the NCI Symposium We intended that the first conference should focus on the basic mechanisms of radiation and chemical carcinogenesis while the second the present meeting would emphasize exposure response relationships particularly the theoretical and practical similarities and differences between exposure to chemical carcinogens compared to exposure to ionizing radiation

Public Health Risk Assessment for Human Exposure to Chemicals K. Asante-Duah, 2012-12-06 In fact with the control and containment of most infectious conditions and diseases of the past millennium having been achieved in most developed countries and with the resultant increase in life expectancies much more attention seems to have shifted to degenerative health problems Many of the degenerative health conditions have been linked to thousands of chemicals regularly encountered in human living and occupational work environments It is important therefore that human health risk assessments are undertaken on a consistent basis in order to determine the potential impacts of the target chemicals on public health
