Values and Ethics in Counseling Dana Heller Levitt, Holly J. Hartwig Moorhead, 2013-06-26. Many counselors learn about ethics in graduate school by applying formal, step-by-step ethical decision-making models that require counselors to be aware of their values and refrain from imposing personal values that might harm clients. However, in the real world, counselors often make split-second ethical decisions based upon personal values. Values and Ethics in Counseling illustrates the ways in which ethical decisions are values-based, but more than that, it guides counselors through the process of examining their own values and analyzing how these values impact ethical decision-making. Each chapter presents ethical decision-making as what it is: a very personal, values-laden process, one that is most effectively illustrated through the real-life stories of counselors at various stages of professional development, from interns to seasoned clinicians who made value-based decisions. Each story is followed by commentary from the author as well as analysis from the editors to contextualize the material and encourage reflection.
