Imagine a situation where a gang is organising a bank heist, each person in the gang is in charge of a different aspect of the heist. From the planning to the implementation all has been contributed by every member. On the day of the heist, all goes wrong!

Two of the gang members shoot a security guard, one of the gang member takes a woman hostage, another member steals more money than was agreed by the members and the last member commits an act of physical abuse.

How would the authorities in the abovementioned scenario decide who is accountable and for what? If both gang members shot the guard, who is responsible for the murder? Did the other gang members have the relevant criminal intention to be convicted of the sexual assault as accomplices? Such scenarios place authorities in tough situations, however, the Federal Law of the United Arab Emirates provides for such scenarios and for the extending of criminal accountability to accomplices such as those above.

In this issue of Court Uncourt, our lawyers will elaborate a broad range of legal matters including Legal issues pertaining criminal accomplices, Legal Overview on Embryonic Stem Cell Research, A Guide on Patent, Exclusion Clauses in the UAE, Trade Secret Laws in the UK and many more. Through this information outlet, we intend to keep our readers updated on the latest legal developments around the world. Thank you, and we hope you have an insightful read of this issue of Court Uncourt.
