

DBQ 14: Decolonization and Revolution: 1945-1975
(Adapted from Document-Based Assessment for Global History, World Education)

Historical Context: Following World War II, there were major independence movements, as well as revolutions, to change the leadership of countries such as India, Vietnam, Cuba, China, and Ghana. Kwame Nkrumah said "This wind of change blowing through Africa . . . is a raging hurricane against which the old order cannot stand. . . . Thus we have witnessed the greatest awakening ever seen on the earth of oppressed and exploited peoples against the powers that have kept them in subjection. This, without a doubt, is the most significant happening of the twentieth century." At the same time in Cuba and China, Fidel Castro and Mao Zedong were leading revolutions to change their countries. Strong leaders shaped the movements for independence and change.

Part A: The following documents provide information about revolutions and the independence movements that swept the world after World War II. Examine the documents carefully, and answer the questions that follow.

Document 1: This excerpt, from the "Declaration Against Colonialism," was adopted by the United Nations in 1960.

The General Assembly, Mindful of the determination proclaimed by the peoples of the world in the Charter of the United Nations to reaffirm faith in fundamental human rights, in the dignity and worth of the human person . . . Solemnly proclaims the necessity of bringing to a speedy and unconditional end colonialism in all its forms . . . And to that end Declares that

The subjection of peoples to alien subjugation, domination and exploitation . . . is contrary to the Charter of the United Nations and is an impediment to the promotion of world peace and co-operation.

All peoples have the right to self-determination; by virtue of that right they freely determine their political status and freely pursue their economic, social and cultural development.

Question: What is the main idea of this U.N. declaration?

Document 2: The following is an excerpt from Ho Chi Minh, a Vietnamese nationalist.

The whole Vietnamese people, animated by a common purpose, are determined to fight to the bitter end against any attempt by the French colonialists to re-conquer the country.

Question: Describe the method Ho Chi Minh recommended to the Vietnamese people.

Document 3:

A. Mohandas Gandhi describes his method for fighting for Indian independence.

Passive [nonviolent] resistance is a method of securing rights by personal suffering; it is the reverse of resistance by arms. . . . If I do not obey the law and accept the penalty for its breach [breaking] I use violence. It involves a sacrifice of self.

B. In describing the Salt March, in which he used passive resistance, Gandhi said the following:

If the weakening of the people in the country is true and real, the salt law is a good as abolished. Draining a lamp of oil! With this, I am shaking the foundations of the British Empire.

Question: Describe the method recommended by Gandhi to the Indian people. What was Gandhi's goal?

Document 4: These are the words of Nelson Mandela as he fights for the end of apartheid in South Africa.

During my lifetime I have dedicated myself to the struggle of the African People. I have cherished the ideal of a democratic and free society in which all persons live together in harmony and with equal opportunities. It is an ideal which I hope to live for and to achieve. But, if needs be, it is an ideal for which I am prepared to die.
